Bond asks legislature to hold spending

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Legislation to "increase public trust in government," curb soaring crime, revamp welfare and reform Missouri's magistrate court system were given priority today by Gov. Christopher S. Bond.

In his legislative message to the General Assembly shortly after it convened for the four-month regular session, Bond urged passage of 29 proposals, many of them unsuccessfully backed by the governor in the past.

Some of the measures given top priority by the Republican governor were similar to priorities set out by Democratic legislative leaders and other Democratic state officials.

But in outlining his legislative package for 1976, Bond warned that state finances are tight at best, and that no "costly new spending programs or cuts in existing sources of revenue can be enacted."

He urged the legislature "to face squarely the issue of living within our means." Bond indicated there would be appropriations vetoes if the state's budget for the year beginning in July exceeds anticipated revenues as it normally has in the past.

Specifically, Bond called for revision of the campaign spending law, enacted by voters in 1974, to exempt from reporting and disclosure requirements candidates spending less than $500 to gain offices where the yearly salary is less than $1,000.

Lawmakers have been leary of changing the new law after the voters enacted it following legislative failure to do so. But the reporting requirements, according to some election officials, have reduced the number of candidates for some non-paying or low-paying local offices.

Revised economic disclosure and conflict of interest legislation for elected officials, authorization to make the state Revenue Department a merit employer rather than a political patronage employer and the transfer of Revenue Department license office operations to the control of local governments were also high priorities in Bond's program.

"If you will adopt these additional measures, Missouri will rightfully be in the forefront in building respect and confidence in government," Bond told the lawmakers, gathered in joint session.

Because of the state's tight fiscal situation, Bond again placed high priority on expanding employment in the state. He cited efforts of both state and local officials which resulted in the addition of nearly 7,000 jobs last year.

But he called for authorization to submit to voters a constitutional amendment allowing cities and counties to issue industrial revenue bonds without a public vote.

Noting that seven of the eight states bordering Missouri currently allow such bonds to be issue without a public vote, Bond said the state is at a disadvantage in attracting new industry.

He also aksed, however, that the interest rate governmental units can pay for bonds be hiked to 10 per cent because of the nation's overall economic problems.

In addition, the governor urged an increase in employer contributions to the state's unemployment benefit trust fund, noting that increased benefits approved a year ago along with a high jobless rate will dry up the multi-million dollar fund by year's end.

In the area of judicial reform, he called for creation of a small claims court, expansion of the non-partisan court pain to cover magistrates in judicial circuits where other judges are elected under the plan, expansion of the duties of magistrates to relieve heavy circuit court caseloads and mandatory retirement for magistrates at 70.

Should those changes be accomplished, Bond said he would approve a $3,000 hike in magistrate pay. He vetoed a magistrate pay raise last year because such reforms were not accomplished.

To aid law enforcement and reduce crime, the governor urged creation of a drug and crime control unit within the state Highway Patrol.

Legislative leaders have proposed creation of an independent statewide crime laboratory to assist local police in criminal investigations. It has been that difference which has led to defeat of the proposals in the past.

Witness immunity legislation, under which persons would be compelled to testify, a mandatory three-year sentence for persons convicted of crimes involving weapons and protection for rape victims were also urged.

Chaffee seeks to annex

CHAFFEE–A petition for declaratory judgment authorizing annexation by the city of Chaffee of a 200-acre area approximately one-quarter mile west and south of the present city limits along Highway 77 was filed Monday in Scott County Circuit Court at Benton.

Among the property owners affected, the suit names Square Post Buildings, Annie T. Tlapek, Raymond P. Dame, Marjory L. Dame, Al Glastetter and Beatrice E. Glastetter, and states that they have been fairly chosen and adequately and fairly represent a class consisting of all inhabitants.

In the suit, the city claims that the annexation of the unincorporated area is reasonable and necessary for the proper development of the city and that the land is adjacent to the boundaries of the city and is being used as residential and commercial property.

The suit further states that the city of Chaffee has already extended water and sewer service to most of the area to be

CB and water pump stolen

The theft of a citizens band radio and a water pump in separate Route Two burglaries was reported Wednesday, a Scott County Sheriff's Department spokesman announced today.

Bob Keller of Paris, Ky., told the department that a citizens band radio valued at $179 was stolen from his truck while parked at the Nationwide Tractor Sales Monday night.

Gene Dement, 704 Allen Blvd., reported a water pump valued at between $200 and $250 was stolen sometime during the past two weeks from his farm on Sikeston Route Two.

The sheriff's department is investigating both thefts.

Motorists trapped in wreckage

Men work to free an injured woman (top photo) from a car which apparently slid off the iced-over road this morning and vaulted over an embankment on Highway 60 one-fourth mile west of the Highway 61 intersection. The driver was killed and the woman passenger critically injured. The accident occurred shortly before 11 a.m., and The Daily Standard was unable to learn the identity of either victim. The front of the automobile (bottom photo) was demolished by the impact.

Accidents fatal to 2 motorists

A series of traffic accidents shortly before noon today resulted in the death of at least one motorist and injuries to several others. A rural Poynor man was killed and three persons moderately injured in three other area accidents Tuesday and early today, the highway patrol has announced.

The patrol was still investigating several accidents that occurred on iced-over roads in following sleet and freezing rain this morning, and information on most of them was not available.

An unidentified man was killed shortly before 11 a.m. today in a one-car accident on Highway 60 one-fourth mile west of the Highway 61 intersection. A woman passenger in the car was pinned in the wreckage and later taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston with critical injuries. She has not been identified.

Details of the accident were not available at press time.

Today's deaths were the third and fourth on Southeast Missouri roads this year, compared to one during the same period in 1975.

The first fatal accident occurred at 12:05 a.m. today on Highway 21, three miles south of Doniphan, when a northbound pickup truck driven by Milton Leon Burnett, 51, of Poynor Route Four ran off the road on a curve at a high rate of speed.

Moore files motion to intervene in annexation

Scott County Prosecuting Attorney Jim Moore said today that he has filed a motion seeking to intervene in an annexation suit filed in Scott County Circuit Court by the city of Cape Girardeau.

Moore is seeking to intervene on behalf of the Scott County Court, which wants to block annexation of a large portion of northern Scott County by Cape Girardeau.

Intervention is not a matter of right, but must granted by the Circuit Court before the county can be officially considered in the lawsuit, Moore said.

Moore's motion states that the defendants named in the suit do not constitute an adequate representation of all inhabitants or parties interested in the proposed annexed land.

The defendants named in the suit are Edward Blattel, Fred Thiele and Ronald Burger, landowners in the area being proposed for annexation.

Moore's motion denies that the city of Cape Girardeau has used all available land now vacant within the city limits and denies housing and commercial development has increased sufficiently to warrant such an annexation.

He denies Cape Girardeau is able to furnish normal municipal services within a normal reasonable time after the proposed annexation and further states there are presently areas within the Cape Girardeau city limits that have not yet been furnished normal municipal services.

Moore denies that library, school and park facilities are being utilized by residents of the area proposed for annexation and denies the proposed annexation would provide uniform grade and street alignment and that it would be possible to cross natural barriers of the Diversion Channel only by means of bridges either presently built or to be built in the future.

The motion denies that annexation is contiguous to the present city limits and says that a large part of the land to be annexed is separated from the city by the Diversion Channel which carries water from the Castor and Whitewater rivers.

Moore also states that annexation will hinder, inhibit and interfere with proposed zoning laws and developmental planning to be implemented by Scott County.

Such zoning laws and planning have been under consideration by the County Court for several years, he said.

Marston man shot

MARSTON — Tony Morgan, age unavailable, was accidentally shot in the abdomen at 8:30 a.m. today by George Savat, 28, of Conra, as Savat was reportedly showing him a .22 caliber pistol, according to a New Madrid County Sheriff's Deputy.

Morgan is reported in serious condition at Pemiscot County Memorial Medical Center at Hayti.

Savat told officers that he thought the gun was unloaded as he and Morgan were looking at it outside Morgan Service Station. However, when he pulled the trigger, the gun fired.

The deputy said Savat indicated Morgan was interested in possibly buying the gun.

Officers have been unable to talk with Morgan and the investigation is continuing.

Bottenfield is new TRCC president

POPLAR BLUFF — Dr. Jack L. Bottenfield has been elected to succeed Dr. H. Tudor Westover as president of three Rivers Community College by the board of trustees of the college district.

Bottenfield, 40, of Vincennes, Ind., will assume the position July 1 when Westover's retirement becomes effective. Bottenfield signed a three-year contract with TRCC Tuesday at a special meeting of the board of trustees.

Bottenfield has served as executive vice president of vincennes University — Indiana's only public junior college — since July 1975. He began his career at Vincennes in 1965 as assistant to the president and instructor of biological sciences. In 1970, he was named the first vice president in the history of Vincennes University following a change in the bylaws of the school. He was a vocational agriculture instructor at South Knox school Corporation from 1958 to 1965.

Bottenfield is a native of Oblong, Ill., and received a bachelor of science degree in agriculture in 1957 and a master's degree in education in 1964 from the University of Illinois. He received a doctor of education degree from Indiana University in 1970. His doctoral thesis was titled, "The Problems Involved in Initiating Vocational- Technical (Occupational) Programs in New Public Junior Colleges."

"I am very pleased to have the privilege of serving as the president of Three Rivers Community College and I pledge my full commitment to working with the communities, board, faculty, staff and students in accomplishing the institutional goals in service to the people of the college district," said Bottenfield.

"I believe the most important resource any area can have is its people and I appreciate the privilege I have to work with the people of the Three Rivers area."

While serving at Vincennes, Bottenfield supervised a university- owned community cable television system and a historical preservations project. Also, he coordinated projects for the university in the field of aging.

He is involved in numerous state and national educational organizations. He was chairman of the Postsecondary advisory Committee- State Board of Vocational and technical Education and the Study Committee on State and National trends in Higher Education for the commission on Higher Education for the state of Indiana. Also, he was a member of the President's Committee on Occupational Education Program.

Bottenfield was named Outstanding Young Man of 1967 by the Vincennes Jaycees and has worked for numerous community service organizations. He helped obtain national accreditation for the Knox County Chamber of Commerce and was a founding member of the Knox County association for Retarded Children. He is active in the Masonic Lodge, 4-H Clubs, YMCA, United Fund and Christmas Seal campaigns.

He has been a featured speaker at Duke University in Durham, N.C., University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, the national convention of the American Association of Community and Junior Colleges and the annual conference of the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools.

Bottenfield was chosen from approximately 80 applicants from 30 states. He was chosen by the presidential search committee set up in July 1975 following Westover's announcement he planned to retire due to health reasons. Applications were accepted

LENIENT JUDGES: CAUSE OF CRIME?

In the wake of the shocking Justice Department report that over 20,000 people in the United States were murdered in cold blood during last year, comes the inevitable question: Why?

Surely, one of the answers must be that of the extreme leniency being shown by the courts to convicted criminals, including murderers. Of all the complaints made by the late J. Edgar Hoover, former Director of the FBI, the one he probably repeated most often was against judges and courts who are "soft on criminals." But there is ample evidence that the "soft on criminals" attitude is still widespread.

One Associated Press story recently told of a convicted murderer in Des Moines, Iowa, who was freed by a Federal Circuit Court because, AFTER he had been picked up by police and advised of his right to remain silent and have an attorney, he led the officers to the location of the body of the ten year old girl he had slain. The circuit court ruled that the convict "had not intelligently waived his right to remain silent or to have an attorney present." And so they let him off.

In Montgomery County, Maryland, a convicted killer -- who had shot to death an eighteen-year-old Montgomery College freshman with a sawed - off shotgun -- was given a sentence of 15 years in prison, with 11 years suspended, and then was allowed to go free on bond pending a review of the case. The killer, if imprisoned at all, could be released on parole almost immediately but -- the news story said -- "probably would not be considered for parole for one year."

One of the strange features of the Maryland case is that under Maryland State Law, there is a five- year mandatory sentence which is supposed to be enforced for anyone who uses a gun in the commission of a crime. Yet, according to the National Rifle Association in Washington, up until December, 1975, not one criminal using a gun has served one day in jail under the statute

Is it any wonder that all sorts of crimes, including murder, are increasing in frequency and numbers? When are the courts going to signal the criminals that crime doesn't pay?

Five New York doctors may endorse a certain headache remedy, or whatever it was that used to be advertised that way. But 301,688 pharmacists prefer Ronald Reagan over Gerald Ford or any other candidate, Republican or Democrat, as the next President of the United States.

Anyway, that's what our arithmetic makes it.

American Druggist magazine reports that in a poll it conducted among 877 pharmacists, 34.4 per cent supported the former governor of California while Mr. Ford garnered only 25.4 per cent.

Interestingly, the former pharmacist, Sen. Hubert Humphrey, placed a distant third with 9.7 per cent, barely nosing out George Wallace by one-tenth of one per cent.

American Druggist thinks the results of the poll are "particularly significant since pharmacists traditionally reflect an important segment of community political sentiment, especially in nonurban areas."

We're puzzled by those tenths of a per cent, though, and that fractional pharmacist who likes Reagan.

PARTISAN 'HEARINGS'

The phony December "hearings" that have been conducted by members of the Missouri House on bills backed by the Democratic leadership are an insult to the taxpayers.

The partisan hearings by several House committees have been ordered by Speaker Richard Rabbitt, D-St. Louis.

Some Republican legislators have questioned the constitutionality of holding public hearings on bills before the 1976 Missouri General Assembly begins on Jan. 7.

Rep. James Strong, R-Jefferson City, has pointed out that the bills selected for early hearings are "Democratic bills."

Strong notes that because the House is not now in session no first readings of the legislation have been possible. This means that the committee hearings in December will have to be repeated when the session begins in January. Then committee members will vote on whether to report the proposals out of committee or kill them.

Strong says Rabbitt is selecting legislation for early hearings which the House leadership failed to push through during the 1975 General Assembly.

In short, the early hearings forced by Rabbitt will mean that legislators will scoop up some more expense money from the taxpayers for holding hearings when the legislature is not in session. Also the method used is an obvious partisan move to shove Democratic bills ahead of others in the legislative process. Strong also pointed to the bills which have been printed by the House. "Only one bill had a Republican co-sponsor," he notes.

This latest blatant misuse of the legislative process and the disregard for the taxpayers' money is one more reason why the citizens of Missouri must sign constitutional amendment petitions placing a limit on legislative compensation and stopping legislative expenses when the General Assembly is not in session.

Rabbitt's "early hearings" on bills ought to be exposed for what they are. Honest Republicans and Democrats in the House will fail to do the job if they do not complain loudly about what is going on in Jefferson City with the phony December "hearings." Newspapers throughout the state should learn how their legislators stand on this issue.

GOVERNMENT NEUTRAL TODAY?

Most Americans take it for granted their government is neutral in the give-and-take of collective bargaining processes.

The law of the land requires it. After all, that is what the labor laws of the 1930s were all about, recognizing workers' rights to form unions and to bargain on even terms with employers.

But is government neutral today? Hardly. Powerful unions dominate, with the help of prolabor laws enacted by prolabor Congresses.

But things are looking up. In the state of Hawaii recently, a federal judge ruled that payment of unemployment compensation to strikers--supplanting a large share of their take-home pay--is illegal because it favors strikers over management. Under such strike circumstances, says U.S. District Judge Martin Pence, strikers can't lose. In his precedent-setting opinion, he wrote: "The strikers' position when a strike is called, with the state's assist, becomes one of 'heads I win, tails you lose.'"

In the Hawaiian and other court cases, the Chamber of Commerce of the U.S. is seeking to ban payment of public assistance to help finance strikes.

The Chamber, a plaintiff in the Hawaiian case, takes the position that jobless benefits, welfare aid to dependent children and food stamps, when paid to strikers, prolongs strikes and force unfair settlements on employers.

The president of the National Chamber summed up the business federation's basic legal philosophy: "Strikes are supposed to be the ultimate economic pressure on both sides to resolve disagreements, and if the pressure is lifted from workers by public assistance, they lose substantial incentive to come to agreement while all the economic pressure is focused on employers."

One-sided pressure leads to one-sided settlements, which mean higher wages and costlier fringes and made-work rules when unions are one of the parties. In the end, the public pays the price.

Public assistance programs traditionally are designed to aid those willing to work. Those unwilling to work are denied benefits.

Why should a striker be treated any differently?

PROTECTING DEADBEATS

In behalf of the Missouri consumers, the state's private utilities should take the Missouri Public Service Commission to court over the new billing rules imposed by the PSC.

In the guise of helping the consumer, the PSC has guaranteed several million dollars in higher rates in the future by forcing expensive new regulations on utilities.

Customers who pay their bills on time and who have good credit records will receive absolutely no benefits from the costly new rules, scheduled to go into effect Dec. 29. All regulated utilities would have until June 26, 1976, to comply with the new regulations.

The only people who will benefit from the new PSC rules are the deadbeats who do not pay their bills. In the process, the people who do pay their bills will have their rates raised to pay the added costs of the restrictive rules to the utilities.

For example, the new regulations will cost Missouri Power and Light Co. customers in Jefferson City and Central Missouri an extra $205,000 each year to make things easier for the deadbeats. In addition to this amount, MPL's initial costs to get the procedures set up will cost the consumers another $68,280.

Although he agrees with the decision, PSC Chairman Robert Pierce has expressed some "serious reservations" to some provisions of the complicated regulations covering 15 pages.

"In the past we have regulated utilities, now we're getting into running them," Pierce said.

The PSC decision must be tested in court.

Consumers ought to remember that when bureaucrats talk about protecting them, they are usually talking about making things more expensive for them.

The new billing scheme was developed at the suggestion of James Mulvaney, a former St. Louis milkman and legislator, who was appointed to the PSC by Gov. Christopher S. (Kit) Bond. Mulvaney brings a Ralph Nader zeal to the job. But, like Nader, the proposals pushed by Mulvaney in the name of the consumers end up costing the consumers.

SPURIOUS COURAGE OF CENSURING THE DEAD

Rep. Gilbert Gude, R-Md., says he will introduce a bill in Congress to expunge J. Edgar Hoover's name from the FBI's new building in Washington because of "the abuse of investigative and police powers" by the late director, chiefly his "smear campaign" against Martin Luther King Jr.

At least a couple other congressmen have indicated they will either introduce or support similar legislation.

It will be surprising, however, if this movement gets very far—not because of any great residue of admiration for Hoover on Capitol Hill, or in the nation at large, but because this sort of postmortum retribution smacks a little too much of the historical revisionism as practiced in the Soviet Union.

If we are to de-Hooverize the FBI's headquarters, to be logical about it we ought also to de-Johnsonize and de-Kennedyize a host of monuments bearing these men's names. Both presidents were responsible for, or permitted, abuses of the investigative and police powers of the nation's intelligence agencies.

Indeed, we could go back as far as Franklin D. Roosevelt, who, it has just been revealed, ordered the FBI to collect dossiers and make reports on Americans who opposed U.S. involvement in the war in Europe.

In the case of Hoover, far better had someone in Congress had the guts to stand up to this arrogant man while he was living. The fact that no one did, whether or not the rumor is true that Hoover "had something" on everyone in Washington, is a sorry enough commentary on the recent history of the Republic.

Hit 85 Per Cent Right:

Addiction to prediction lures columnist into forecasting 1976's big stories

WASHINGTON — Crystal-balling the crises which will shake 1976 is as dangerous as shaving with a power lawnmower. But a columnist should have the strength of his predictions as well as his convictions. Especially since we hit an 85 per cent score last year. (All right, 80 per cent.) So here goes:

Smart money inside labor is on a Hubert Humphrey-Jimmy Carter ticket on the theory that Scoop Jackson just couldn't whip up excitement if he were the sole male among the fabled Amazons . . . If President Ford survives the primaries, which the insiders just don't believe, he'll run with Elliot Richardson. Nelson Rockefeller bluntly told Jerry Ford he (Rocky) wouldn't take he vice-presidential nomination even if Mr. Ford offered it after his own convention victory.

Further, that smart labor money says that finally it will be a Ronnie Reagan-Hubert Humphrey race.

Behind the scenes Ted Kennedy will push for strong Sargent Shriver and Gov. Hugh Carey delegation blocs so he can have in-put at the nominating convention . . . Gov. Wallace either will head or back a third-party ticket . . . Watch for Michigan's Sen. Griffin to start early and run hard for the 1980 nomination if the GOP loses this fall . . . Don't be surprised if Sen. McGovern pulls a Gene McCarthy and even a fourth-party movement.

Inflation rate will run between 7.2 and 8 per cent . . . Unemployment will be heavy and some 25 million workers will have been without jobs at one time or another by 1977 . . . Labor will push for a Full Employment Act which would force the President to submit to Congress yearly detailed targets, policies and programs to reduce joblessness to a 3 per cent level . . . Watch for big push for free dental care in new labor contracts . . . and for "flexitime," meaning reporting to work at employes' own selected time so long as eight hours are put in . . . and for a fight for the shorter work day . . . also for free legal advice through "judicare" paid for by employer contributions . . . and for heavier pensions, earlier retirement and tightened guaranteed annual wages regardless of what remains in Supplemental Unemployment Benefit funds during heavy layoffs.

First year average wage increases will top 10 per cent . . . Look for rubber industry strikes . . . and a fierce power struggle in the huge steel union, especially during its mid-summer convention in Las Vegas . . . And fast maneuvering in the auto union for the successor to Abe Abel and Leonard Woodcock respectively.

Watch for the hard hats'; revenge -- toughest demands during the opening of some 3,500 building and construction contracts for as much as $2 an hour in some areas . . . And, a push by labor for federal spending of some $3 to $5 billion to construct multiple housing and fossil power plants . . .

Also the use of AFL-CIO's own mortgage investment trust to speed new housing.

The strike crisis period will run from March to midsummer. The Teamsters, now bargaining for almost half a million freight haulers, are in the grimmest mood since Hannibal's elephants looked up at the Alps. The series of coming federal investigations won't permit traditional trade union corner-cutting during these vital transportation negotiations.

Government agents aren't looking for Jimmy Hoffa's body in that New Jersey swamp. They believe he's buried, or what's left of him (too grisly a story to report) somewhere in the Midwest . . . There's no shakeup in the Teamsters. Fitz will be president; Chicago's Central States director Ray Schoessling will succeed former secretary-treasurer Dusty Miller and Kansas City's Roy Williams will replace Schoessling.

Dusty Miller quit because he's been in terrific pain for months, underwent surgery five times and can take a huge chunk of pension money not possible after Jan. 1 under the Employes Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA) . . . Hundreds of Teamsters officials have resigned for same reason . . . Actually one of the year's biggest economic developments, should the phenomenologists be interested, will be the silent pension revolution. New costs will run into the tens of billions soon enough.

Dick Nixon has told friends he'll soon complete his book -- which won't have many revelations but be a "human" document . . . George Meany will clobber Jerry Ford beginning with the AFL-CIO executive council session opening Feb. 16 and expects to sit right up front at the Humphrey or Jackson inaugural next January . . . United Mine Workers president Arnold Miller, naive or not, will beat back his enemies inside this powerful and wealthy union; and keep peace in the coal fields which soon will be parched for manpower . . . Look for an unusually strong joint industry-labor counteroffensive against the environmentalists.

-0-

The men's clothing workers union, led by president Murray Finley and secretary-treasurer Jack Sheinkman, will merge with the junior partner, Sol Stetin's Textile Workers Union . . . Newest of labor personalities will be the National Labor Assn.'s executive secretary Terry Herndon . . . and its president, John Ryor, who'll give national battle with American Federation of Teachers Al Shanker in what may well be the final showdown between the two organizations. This year the NEA will have some $4 million to spend on national politics.

-0-

Meany's toughest problem will develop inside labor when he cracks down on the anti-busing forces organizing within the AFL-CIO . . . Ne revelations will show that Mafia ties with some former White House insiders and intimates have existed for years . . . Watch for a concentrated probe of the "Genovese Mafia family."

d -0-

The most turbulent labor front will be in the public sector where not only hundreds of thousands of jobs but formerly secure pensions are at stake. With all eyes on the Big Apple, everybody appears to be overlooking federal and state crackdowns on surplus workers and impending heavy layoffs . . . Congrontations on the state-public sector front will tie up service . . . and cities will organize regional mutual police, fire and sanitation aid pacts.

-0-

And there are those in the U.S. State Department who expect that labor forces in India will either kill or imprison dictator Indira Gandhi before year's end.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Hoover's Wrath
with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — We have been digging into the secrets of the late J. Edgar Hoover, whose abuses of power made him the most formidable and feared bureaucrat in the history of the republic.

Only a complete exposure of his abuses can prevent them from happening again.

He built his enormous power by manipulating the press and maligning his critics. Thanks to carefully publicized human strengths and carefully hidden human failings, he appeared as a man of action fighting the forces of evil.

More than 40 years of planted press noticestransformed his bulldog visage into a national symbol. His staccato speech and stern mannerism completed the image.

Writers who dared to criticize Hoover wound up on his hate list, which was far more deadly than the FBI's most-wanted list.

Attorney Max Lowenthal, for example, questioned the FBI's fabled reputation in a book entitled simply "The FBI." It dealt more with the corrup agency Hoover had inherited than the effective crime-fighting organization he built. But there were some passages that were less than flattering about Hoover.

After he read it, he let out a roar of rage and summoned a trusted assistant whose function it was to prevent such embarrassments. Hoover angrily threatened to fire the man for failing to block the publication of the book.

The agent would rather have faced gangland gunfire than Hoover's wrath. The tongue lashing was more than he could take; he broke down and wept like a baby. "Mr. Hoover," he sniffled, "if I had known this book was coming out, I'd have thrown my body into the presses to block it."

Although it was too late for this sacrifice, Hoover ordered his minions to prepare half-a-dozen black, fiber-bound volumes of critical analysis tearing apart the Lowenthal book. These were used to compose harsh book reviews, which were secretly circulated to compliant newspapers and magazines. Agents were even reduced to canvassing booksellers and urging them not to stock the book.

But this wasn't enough to placate the irascible FBI chief. He also ordered every index in the FBI checked for derogatory information about Lowenthal. He seized upon a vague tie with a communist-front group, which was spread through FBI field offices to the media.

The Fund for the Republic, meanwhile, conducted a scholarly study of domestic communism, which concluded the FBI was overblowing its importance. This inflamed Hoover, who ordered an all-out investigation of both the Fund and its head, Dr. Robert Maynard Hutchins.

The FBI chief directed his subordinates to prepare a monograph ripping Hutchins to pieces. They became so impressed with Hutchins from their research, however, that they produced a mild monograph. Down came instructions to rewrite the piece, making it suitably derogatory, on pain of being censured. The second, more vicious monograph was leaked to the press.

Another famous scholar, Henry Steele Commager, also offended the great G-man. Hoover fired off pink sheets to field agents, directing them to smear Commager. The use of pink paper was understood to mean they should destroy the message after reading it.

A recalcitrant former agent, Jack Levine, was railroaded out of the FBI by Hoover but struck back with an article ridiculing the FBI director. The vengeful Hoover blocked Levine from getting a job at the Justice Department and tried to block his admission to the Arizona bar.

Similar smear campaigns were run against former agents Bill Turner and Bernard Conners, who also wrote critical books about the FBI.

In contrast, Hoover directed a vigorous promotion campaign to sell his own book on communism, "Masters of Deceit," which was written for him by FBI ghostwriters. The FBI chief arranged with a friend to set up a front group, which bought hundreds of copies of the book and distributed them to influential Americans. Glowing reviews, prepared inside the FBI, were distributed to the press.

Indeed, Hoover established a powerful publicity machine. For example, a letter-writing unit, staffed with FBI agents, personalized his correspondence. The agents provided inquirers with information on what kind of suits, shoes and ties Hoover wore, how he liked his steak and his favorite recipe for popovers.

One agent wrote a detailed letter explaining why Hoover's favorite hymn was "The Old Rugged Cross," then learned the correct hymn was "Rock of Ages." The agent simply changed the names, utilizing the same reasons.

Because of his mastery of publicity, the old curmudgeon lasted on top of the bureaucracy longer than any other American and became too formidable a public figure even for Presidents to challenge.

LENIENT JUDGES: CAUSE OF CRIME?

In the wake of the shocking Justice Department report that over 20,000 people in the United States were murdered in cold blood during last year, comes the inevitable question: Why?

Surely, one of the answers must be that of the extreme leniency being shown by the courts to convicted criminals, including murderers. Of all the complaints made by the late J. Edgar Hoover, former Director of the FBI, the one he probably repeated most often was against judges and courts who are "soft on criminals." But there is ample evidence that the "soft on criminals" attitude is still widespread.

One Associated Press story recently told of a convicted murderer in Des Moines, Iowa, who was freed by a Federal Circuit Court because, AFTER he had been picked up by police and advised of his right to remain silent and have an attorney, he led the officers to the location of the body of the ten year old girl he had slain. The circuit court ruled that the convict "had not intelligently waived his right to remain silent or to have an attorney present." And so they let him off.

In Montgomery County, Maryland, a convicted killer -- who had shot to death an eighteen-year-old Montgomery College freshman with a sawed - off shotgun -- was given a sentence of 15 years in prison, with 11 years suspended, and then was allowed to go free on bond pending a review of the case. The killer, if imprisoned at all, could be released on parole almost immediately but -- the news story said -- "probably would not be considered for parole for one year."

One of the strange features of the Maryland case is that under Maryland State Law, there is a five- year mandatory sentence which is supposed to be enforced for anyone who uses a gun in the commission of a crime. Yet, according to the National Rifle Association in Washington, up until December, 1975, not one criminal using a gun has served one day in jail under the statute

Is it any wonder that all sorts of crimes, including murder, are increasing in frequency and numbers? When are the courts going to signal the criminals that crime doesn't pay?

In behalf of the Missouri consumers, the state's private utilities should take the Missouri Public Service Commission to court over the new billing rules imposed by the PSC.

In the guise of helping the consumer, the PSC has guaranteed several million dollars in higher rates in the future by forcing expensive new regulations on utilities.

Customers who pay their bills on time and who have good credit records will receive absolutely no benefits from the costly new rules, scheduled to go into effect Dec. 29. All regulated utilities would have until June 26, 1976, to comply with the new regulations.

The only people who will benefit from the new PSC rules are the deadbeats who do not pay their bills. In the process, the people who do pay their bills will have their rates raised to pay the added costs of the restrictive rules to the utilities.

For example, the new regulations will cost Missouri Power and Light Co. customers in Jefferson City and Central Missouri an extra $205,090 each year to make things easier for the deadbeats. In addition to this amount, MPL's initial costs to get the procedures set up will cost the consumers another $68,260.

Although he agrees with the decision, PSC Chairman Robert Pierce has expressed some "serious reservations" to some provisions of the complicated regulations covering 15 pages.

"In the past we have regulated utilities, now we're getting into running them," Pierce said.

The PSC decision must be tested in court.

Consumers ought to remember that when bureaucrats talk about protecting them, they are usually talking about making things more expensive for them.

The new billing scheme was developed at the suggestion of James Mulvaney, a former St. Louis milkman and legislator, who was appointed to the PSC by Gov. Christopher S. (Kit) Bond. Mulvaney brings a Ralph Nader zeal to the job. But, like Nader, the proposals pushed by Mulvaney in the name of the consumers end up costing the consumers.

SPURIOUS COURAGE OF CENSURING THE DEAD

Rep. Gilbert Gude, R-Md., says he will introduce a bill in Congress to expunge J. Edgar Hoover's name from the FBI's new building in Washington because of "the abuse of investigative and police powers" by the late director, chiefly his "smear campaign" against Martin Luther King Jr.

At least a couple other congressmen have indicated they will either introduce or support similar legislation.

It will be surprising, however, if this movement gets very far—not because of any great residue of admiration for Hoover on Capitol Hill, or in the nation at large, but because this sort of postmortum retribution smacks a little too much of the historical revisionism as practiced in the Soviet Union.

If we are to de-Hooverize the FBI's headquarters, to be logical about it we ought also to de-Johnsonize and de-Kennedyize a host of monuments bearing these men's names. Both presidents were responsible for, or permitted, abuses of the investigative and police powers of the nation's intelligence agencies.

Indeed, we could go back as far as Franklin D. Roosevelt, who, it has just been revealed, ordered the FBI to collect dossiers and make reports on Americans who opposed U.S. involvement in the war in Europe.

In the case of Hoover, far better had someone in Congress had the guts to stand up to this arrogant man while he was living. The fact that no one did, whether or not the rumor is true that Hoover "had something" on everyone in Washington, is a sorry enough commentary on the recent history of the Republic.

"Nothing to nothing," came the reply.

"Oh, good!" exclaimed the young lady. "Then we haven't missed anything!"

The headwaiter rallies slightly and says, "That's a complicated order, sir. It might be a bit difficult."

"Oh?" says the guest. "You didn't find it difficult yesterday."

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Hit 85 Per Cent Right:

Addiction to prediction lures columnist into forecasting 1976's big stories

WASHINGTON — Crystal-balling the crises which will shake 1976 is as dangerous as shaving with a power lawnmower. But a columnist should have the strength of his predictions as well as his convictions. Especially since we hit an 85 per cent score last year. (All right, 80 per cent.) So here goes:

Smart money inside labor is on a Hubert Humphrey-Jimmy Carter ticket on the theory that Scoop Jackson just couldn't whip up excitement if he were the sole male among the fabled Amazons . . . If President Ford survives the primaries, which the insiders just don't believe, he'll run with Elliot Richardson. Nelson Rockefeller bluntly told Jerry Ford he (Rocky) wouldn't take he vice-presidential nomination even if Mr. Ford offered it after his own convention victory.

Further, that smart labor money says that finally it will be a Ronnie Reagan-Hubert Humphrey race.

Behind the scenes Ted Kennedy will push for strong Sargent Shriver and Gov. Hugh Carey delegation blocs so he can have in-put at the nominating convention . . . Gov. Wallace either will head or back a third-party ticket . . . Watch for Michigan's Sen. Griffin to start early and run hard for the 1980 nomination if the GOP loses this fall . . . Don't be surprised if Sen. McGovern pulls a Gene McCarthy and even a fourth-party movement.

Inflation rate will run between 7.2 and 8 per cent . . . Unemployment will be heavy and some 25 million workers will have been without jobs at one time or another by 1977 . . . Labor will push for a Full Employment Act which would force the President to submit to Congress yearly detailed targets, policies and programs to reduce joblessness to a 3 per cent level . . . Watch for big push for free dental care in new labor contracts . . . and for "flexitime," meaning reporting to work at employes' own selected time so long as eight hours are put in . . . and for a fight for the shorter work day . . . also for free legal advice through "judicare" paid for by employer contributions . . . and for heavier pensions, earlier retirement and tightened guaranteed annual wages regardless of what remains in Supplemental Unemployment Benefit funds during heavy layoffs.

First year average wage increases will top 10 per cent . . . Look for rubber industry strikes . . . and a fierce power struggle in the huge steel union, especially during its mid-summer convention in Las Vegas . . . And fast maneuvering in the auto union for the successor to Abe Abel and Leonard Woodcock respectively.

Watch for the hard hats'; revenge -- toughest demands during the opening of some 3,500 building and construction contracts for as much as $2 an hour in some areas . . . And, a push by labor for federal spending of some $3 to $5 billion to construct multiple housing and fossil power plants . . .

Also the use of AFL-CIO's own mortgage investment trust to speed new housing.

The strike crisis period will run from March to midsummer. The Teamsters, now bargaining for almost half a million freight haulers, are in the grimmest mood since Hannibal's elephants looked up at the Alps. The series of coming federal investigations won't permit traditional trade union corner-cutting during these vital transportation negotiations.

Government agents aren't looking for Jimmy Hoffa's body in that New Jersey swamp. They believe he's buried, or what's left of him (too grisly a story to report) somewhere in the Midwest . . . There's no shakeup in the Teamsters. Fitz will be president; Chicago's Central States director Ray Schoessling will succeed former secretary-treasurer Dusty Miller and Kansas City's Roy Williams will replace Schoessling.

Dusty Miller quit because he's been in terrific pain for months, underwent surgery five times and can take a huge chunk of pension money not possible after Jan. 1 under the Employes Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA) . . . Hundreds of Teamsters officials have resigned for same reason . . . Actually one of the year's biggest economic developments, should the phenomenologists be interested, will be the silent pension revolution. New costs will run into the tens of billions soon enough.

Dick Nixon has told friends he'll soon complete his book -- which won't have many revelations but be a "human" document . . . George Meany will clobber Jerry Ford beginning with the AFL-CIO executive council session opening Feb. 16 and expects to sit right up front at the Humphrey or Jackson inaugural next January . . . United Mine Workers president Arnold Miller, naive or not, will beat back his enemies inside this powerful and wealthy union; and keep peace in the coal fields which soon will be parched for manpower . . . Look for an unusually strong joint industry-labor counteroffensive against the environmentalists.

The men's clothing workers union, led by president Murray Finley and secretary-treasurer Jack Sheinkman, will merge with the junior partner, Sol Stetin's Textile Workers Union . . . Newest of labor personalities will be the National Labor Assn.'s executive secretary Terry Herndon . . . and its president, John Ryor, who'll give national battle with American Federation of Teachers Al Shanker in what may well be the final showdown between the two organizations. This year the NEA will have some $4 million to spend on national politics.

-0-

Meany's toughest problem will develop inside labor when he cracks down on the anti-busing forces organizing within the AFL-CIO . . . Ne revelations will show that Mafia ties with some former White House insiders and intimates have existed for years . . . Watch for a concentrated probe of the "Genovese Mafia family."

-0-

The most turbulent labor front will be in the public sector where not only hundreds of thousands of jobs but formerly secure pensions are at stake. With all eyes on the Big Apple, everybody appears to be overlooking federal and state crackdowns on surplus workers and impending heavy layoffs . . . Congrontations on the state-public sector front will tie up service . . . and cities will organize regional mutual police, fire and sanitation aid pacts.

-0-

And there are those in the U.S. State Department who expect that labor forces in India will either kill or imprison dictator Indira Gandhi before year's end.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Hoover's Wrath
with LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — We have been digging into the secrets of the late J. Edgar Hoover, whose abuses of power made him the most formidable and feared bureaucrat in the history of the republic.

Only a complete exposure of his abuses can prevent them from happening again.

He built his enormous power by manipulating the press and maligning his critics. Thanks to carefully publicized human strengths and carefully hidden human failings, he appeared as a man of action fighting the forces of evil.

More than 40 years of planted press noticestransformed his bulldog visage into a national symbol. His staccato speech and stern mannerism completed the image.

Writers who dared to criticize Hoover wound up on his hate list, which was far more deadly than the FBI's most-wanted list.

Attorney Max Lowenthal, for example, questioned the FBI's fabled reputation in a book entitled simply "The FBI." It dealt more with the corrup agency Hoover had inherited than the effective crime-fighting organization he built. But there were some passages that were less than flattering about Hoover.

After he read it, he let out a roar of rage and summoned a trusted assistant whose function it was to prevent such embarrassments. Hoover angrily threatened to fire the man for failing to block the publication of the book.

The agent would rather have faced gangland gunfire than Hoover's wrath. The tongue lashing was more than he could take; he broke down and wept like a baby. "Mr. Hoover," he sniffled, "if I had known this book was coming out, I'd have thrown my body into the presses to block it."

Although it was too late for this sacrifice, Hoover ordered his minions to prepare half-a-dozen black, fiber-bound volumes of critical analysis tearing apart the Lowenthal book. These were used to compose harsh book reviews, which were secretly circulated to compliant newspapers and magazines. Agents were even reduced to canvassing booksellers and urging them not to stock the book.

But this wasn't enough to placate the irascible FBI chief. He also ordered every index in the FBI checked for derogatory information about Lowenthal. He seized upon a vague tie with a communist-front group, which was spread through FBI field offices to the media.

The Fund for the Republic, meanwhile, conducted a scholarly study of domestic communism, which concluded the FBI was overblowing its importance. This inflamed Hoover, who ordered an all-out investigation of both the Fund and its head, Dr. Robert Maynard Hutchins.

The FBI chief directed his subordinates to prepare a monograph ripping Hutchins to pieces. They became so impressed with Hutchins from their research, however, that they produced a mild monograph. Down came instructions to rewrite the piece, making it suitably derogatory, on pain of being censured. The second, more vicious monograph was leaked to the press.

Another famous scholar, Henry Steele Commager, also offended the great G-man. Hoover fired off pink sheets to field agents, directing them to smear Commager. The use of pink paper was understood to mean they should destroy the message after reading it.

A recalcitrant former agent, Jack Levine, was railroaded out of the FBI by Hoover but struck back with an article ridiculing the FBI director. The vengeful Hoover blocked Levine from getting a job at the Justice Department and tried to block his admission to the Arizona bar.

Similar smear campaigns were run against former agents Bill Turner and Bernard Conners, who also wrote critical books about the FBI.

In contrast, Hoover directed a vigorous promotion campaign to sell his own book on communism, "Masters of Deceit," which was written for him by FBI ghostwriters. The FBI chief arranged with a friend to set up a front group, which bought hundreds of copies of the book and distributed them to influential Americans. Glowing reviews, prepared inside the FBI, were distributed to the press.

Indeed, Hoover established a powerful publicity machine. For example, a letter-writing unit, staffed with FBI agents, personalized his correspondence. The agents provided inquirers with information on what kind of suits, shoes and ties Hoover wore, how he liked his steak and his favorite recipe for popovers.

One agent wrote a detailed letter explaining why Hoover's favorite hymn was "The Old Rugged Cross," then learned the correct hymn was "Rock of Ages." The agent simply changed the names, utilizing the same reasons.

Because of his mastery of publicity, the old curmudgeon lasted on top of the bureaucracy longer than any other American and became too formidable a public figure even for Presidents to challenge.

Few attend hearing on new area health unit

MALDEN — Fewer than 50 people Monday night attended a public hearing at Malden to consider the bylaws of a new federally mandated health agency that soon will have jurisdiction over a 24-county area of Southeast Missouri encompassing 478,000 people.

The meeting was the only public hearing that will be held for input during the formation of the new Missouri Area Five Health Systems Agency Council. Almost all of those present were doctors, hospital administrators and others in health-related professions.

Four hearings had been scheduled to offer more public access to the agency's formation, but the department of Health, Education and Welfare, under whose auspices the organization is being formed, changed regulations to require only one hearing.

The area included in the new Area Five Council stretches from the Bootheel northwest to include Ripley, Carter, Reynolds, Dent, Phelps, Maries and Gasconade counties, which takes it as far north as the Missouri River.

Moving along its eastern border, the council includes all of the Boootheel and extends as far north as Ste. Genevieve County and moves along a line west to include St. Francois, Washington and Crawford counties.

Formation of the agency was required by the National Health Planning and Resources Development Act of 1974.

The act is intended to develop a national health policy and produce more effective state and area health planning and resources development programs.

Under the new law, the local health system agency will have far reaching powers of review and approval over federal health funds in its area, will recommend health facilities projects for funding, review all capital expenditures and new service projects in area institutions, recommend action on each health service offered in the area, implement plans to local agencies for technical assistance and develpment, assemble and analyze data on health status and health programs in the area and prepare annually a health systems plan and implementation plan for the area.

All this action will be channeled directly to the state health coordinating agency. The new local agencies eliminate the state office of comprehensive health planning, area comprehensive health planning agencies, the Hill-Burton program, regional medical programs and experimental health delivery systems.

Gov. Christopher Bond called the new act "a monstrosity." The governor claims the agency has little accountability to state government, but is accountable to HEW.

Other members of state government, including William Mitchell, director of the state's Comprehensive Health Planning Program, favor the new law, claiming it insures better local input.

The local input into the program is made by members of the council. The council is to be composed of at least 60 members of its delegate council. Twenty-eight or 30 of those delegates, in turn, will be the council's governing body.

The governing body, according to the fedearl law, is to be made up of at least 51 per cent consumers of health care. The consumers, whose number may not exceed 60 per cent, are supposed to reflect the economic, racial, social and ethnic makeup of the population of the council area.

The providers of health care on the governing body are supposed to represent areas including public health, mental health, registered nurses, chiropractors, medical schools, dentists, optometrists, medical doctors, opthamologists, hospital and nursing home administrators, veterans hospital representatitives and health insurers.

It was pointed out at the meeting that it will be diffucilt to obtain representation for all thos areas in the limited number of people on the governing body.

That promises to be further complicated by he subdividing of the council into four sub-areas. Delegates already have been chosen from each of the four sub-areas.

The sub-areas were designated to match the boundaries of the regional planning commission in the council so as to include their comprehensive health planning councils.

Those involved in planning the bylaws have pointed out that the professional areas required are represented on the larger delegat council, but confirm they expect difficulty in forming the governing body.

Planners have said almost all health care providers are attempting to get on the governing body because of its broad powers of funding review and approval.

A meeting of the delegate council was scheduled for 1 p.m. Thursday at Cape Girardeau, where the governing body will be chosen.

HEW is requiring the bylaws and formation of the council be completed by Jan. 18 or the councils will not be eligible for federal funding.

That funding, at 50 cents per capita, amounts to $238,000 in federal money for the staff and council each year.

Bylaws presented Monday night call for a staff composed of eight professionals and secretarial staff.

Included in the staff are an executive director, a directror of data management, a director of plan development, a director of project review, a director of planning implementation, a data specialist, a health planner and a public education specialist.

The executive director will be hired by the governing body and he, in turn, will recommend the professional staff members.

The staff tentatively accounts for $167,877 of the $239,000 council budget. Other major expenses projected last night are $58,400 for travel, printing and communication, $9,500 for office equipment and $3600 for training.

Local agencies and governments reportedly submitted 222 names for consideration and eventually the 60 persons were chosen to represent the area.

The only lengthy public discussion at the hearing came when Jay David, administrator of Dexter Memorial Hospital, questioned planner Paul Foster on how the delegates had been chosen.

Foster assured the administrator that the council's credentials committee had taken written nominations and received adequate input during its selection process.

The other discussion was prompted by Don Bedell, president of the Missouri Nursing Home Association. Bedell said he was speaking for the association and said his members felt they did not have adequate representation on the council. Bedell expressed his opinion that the public also had been overlooked in the formation of the council.

Bedell said he hoped his "complaint" would be taken in a positive manner.

Foster said the planners had taken every effort to obtain input during the formation of the council and noted they hadbeen pressed for time by HEW regulations. "We simply had to begin," he said.

Building permits total $228,660

Sikeston issued building permits for construction totaling $228,660 during December, according to City Clerk Lynn Lancaster.

Boyer Construction Co. took out a $128,500 building permit for a store complex to be constructed at 910 S. Kingshighway, across Kingshighway from the Kingsway Plaza Mall. Boyer's office is currently located at the site of the store complex.

Other permits issued included:

Travis C. Causey, one-room addition, 322 Virginia St., $1,980; Tom Lingle, enclose carport, 1314 W. Murray Lane, $990; George Rutledge, warehouse, corner of Frisco and William Streets, $34,500; Williams Construction Co., three-bedroom home, 121 Foust Drive, $26,520; Henry W. Moving court location probably wise decision

By DUKE PERRY

BENTON--"Man escapes from custody through a restroom window while waiting to appear in Scott County Magistrate Court in Sikeston," was a news item on Sept. 30, 1975.

Luckily, the man did not attempt the escape while being transported to Sikeston from the county jail in Benton 16 miles away.

For the past 20 years, criminals charged with crimes ranging from peace disturbance to murder many times have been transported from the county jail to the small courtroom in Sikeston for trial.

How would you feel being the lone deputy in a car with five suspected criminals and have to pay attention to traffic while driving the 16 miles?

The traffic alone requires enough of the officer's thoughts, much less having to be alert to the possibility that a prisoner might grab him from behind. There have been occasions in the past when prisoners have grabbed the steering wheel.

The county jail to house these prisoners was built close to the courthouse in Benton to make the task of transporting them to court easier and safer.

In addition, the courthouse is located in the center of the county, making it equally accessible to all residents of the county.

Considering the consequences, the benefits of criminal cases being handled in Sikeston probably have not been sufficient to jeopardize the well being of a police officer or a community in the event a prisoner should escape.

So, it undoubtedly was a wise decision when Scott County Magistrate Lloyd G. Briggs recently changed the handling of all criminal cases from Sikeston to the Scott County courthouse, thereby stopping the distant transportation of prisoners and reducing the possibility of escape.

Few attend hearing on new area health unit

MALDEN — Fewer than 50 people Monday night attended a public hearing at Malden to consider the bylaws of a new federally mandated health agency that soon will have jurisdiction over a 24-county area of Southeast Missouri encompassing 478,000 people.

The meeting was the only public hearing that will be held for input during the formation of the new Missouri Area Five Health Systems Agency Council. Almost all of those present were doctors, hospital administrators and others in health-related professions.

Bylaws presented Monday night call for a staff composed of eight professionals and secretarial staff.

Included in the staff are an executive director, a directror of data management, a director of plan development, a director of project review, a director of planning implementation, a data specialist, a health planner and a public education specialist.

The executive director will be hired by the governing body and he, in turn, will recommend the professional staff members.

The staff tentatively accounts for $167,877 of the $239,000 council budget. Other major expenses projected last night are $58,400 for travel, printing and communication, $9,500 for office equipment and $3600 for training.

Local agencies and governments reportedly submitted 222 names for consideration and eventually the 60 persons were chosen to represent the area.

The only lengthy public discussion at the hearing came when Jay David, administrator of Dexter Memorial Hospital, questioned planner Paul Foster on how the delegates had been chosen.

Foster assured the administrator that the council's credentials committee had taken written nominations and received adequate input during its selection process.

The other discussion was prompted by Don Bedell, president of the Missouri Nursing Home Association. Bedell said he was speaking for the association and said his members felt they did not have adequate representation on the council. Bedell expressed his opinion that the public also had been overlooked in the formation of the council.

Bedell said he hoped his "complaint" would be taken in a positive manner.

Foster said the planners had taken every effort to obtain input during the formation of the council and noted they hadbeen pressed for time by HEW regulations. "We simply had to begin," he said.

Building permits total $228,660

Moving court location probably wise decision

By DUKE PERRY

BENTON--"Man escapes from custody through a restroom window while waiting to appear in Scott County Magistrate Court in Sikeston," was a news item on Sept. 30, 1975.

Luckily, the man did not attempt the escape while being transported to Sikeston from the county jail in Benton 16 miles away.

For the past 20 years, criminals charged with crimes ranging from peace disturbance to murder many times have been transported from the county jail to the small courtroom in Sikeston for trial.

How would you feel being the lone deputy in a car with five suspected criminals and have to pay attention to traffic while driving the 16 miles?

The traffic alone requires enough of the officer's thoughts, much less having to be alert to the possibility that a prisoner might grab him from behind. There have been occasions in the past when prisoners have grabbed the steering wheel.

The county jail to house these prisoners was built close to the courthouse in Benton to make the task of transporting them to court easier and safer.

In addition, the courthouse is located in the center of the county, making it equally accessible to all residents of the county.

Considering the consequences, the benefits of criminal cases being handled in Sikeston probably have not been sufficient to jeopardize the well being of a police officer or a community in the event a prisoner should escape.

So, it undoubtedly was a wise decision when Scott County Magistrate Lloyd G. Briggs recently changed the handling of all criminal cases from Sikeston to the Scott County courthouse, thereby stopping the distant transportation of prisoners and reducing the possibility of escape.

Marriage faring poorly

WASHINGTON (AP) — The institution of marriage apparently is faring poorly with young Americans. More are remaining single and those who do marry are divorcing or separating at higher rates, the Census Bureau says.

A census report released Tuesday on marital status and living arrangements in the United States in the first half of the 1970s also showed a continuation of trends toward a greater number of families headed by women and more children living with single parents.

Based on its nationwide annual survey, conducted last March, the bureau said the number of persons between 25 and 34 years of age who never married has increased by about 50 per cent since 1970, from 2.9 million to 4.2 million persons.

And the number of persons in that age group heading their own household almost doubled, from 915,000 to 1.8 million, the report said.

As a result, the number of persons in the young adult age group living away from their parents' homes rose from 592,000 in 1970 to 1.2 million in 1975, the study said. It reported that the percentage of young adults living alone increased from 21.2 per cent of all 25-to 34-year-olds to 28.5 per cent during the five year period.

Census demographer Arthur Norton said the trend of young people living away from their parental home may level off soon, however. He cited bureau surveys of social indicators which show "there still seems to be a high regard for family life," although he said statistics have yet to reflect a leveling trend.

On dissolution of marriages, the report noted that in 1975 10 per cent of all persons 25 to 54 years old who had ever married were reported as either divorced and not remarried or separated. The 1970 figure was 7 per cent.

One consequence of higher divorce and separation rates has been an increase in the number of families headed by women and the number of children living with only one parent.

The study revealed that in 1975, 80 per cent of all children under 18 lived with both parents, compared with 85 per cent five years earlier.

In the same period, the number of families headed by women jumped by 1.6 million to 7.2 million. That means the percentage of families headed by women increased from 11 per cent in 1970 to 13 per cent in 1975.

Harry just a dog

By ERMA BOMBECK

I never cease to be amazed at people who elevate animals to the heights of will and intellect.

You know the ones I mean . . . the owners who clothe their dogs in raincoats and boots, have their teeth capped, bed them down in a four-poster bed, send them to spas, and fight their bad breath.

The latest entry in this cult is a story out of Miami where two poodles, Zsa Zsa and Rori, were united in holy wedlock by a notary public in Zsa Zsa's back yard. The bride's owner drew the line at planning a honeymoon as she could not bear to be separated from the bride for any length of time. The bride had no comment.

I consider our dog a pet. Nothing more. As far as I'm concerned, I have never attributed human qualities to him. Granted he understands every word I say and sings in key with he guitar, but he's just a dog.

Oh sure, he has his own seat by the car window when we go bye-bye and we have to spell s-h-o-t-s in front of him to get him to the vet, and we don't dare turn off the Gravy Train commercials when he's watching, but he's just a domestic animal and we don't forget that.

"Can you imagine marrying Harry off?" asked my husband.

I nearly fell off the chair laughing. "That's dumb. Really dumb. I mean, I never saw a girl good enough for him."

"What about Bernice . . . that terrier in the cul-de-sac?"

"Get serious. That little tramp?"

"Or Sally, the little poodle?"

"She's too short and dumpy. That dog has just let herself go to pot."

"Come to think of it, he has been seeing a lot of Flossie."

"But who is she? I mean really? Can you believe she actually wore a flea collar to Harry's birthday party?"

Cooking Up

Consolation is making more goodies

By CHERIE BLANTON

I don't know about you but I am so full from all the holiday goodies. My "anchor" has expanded so much that I feel something has just got to be done. Well, after giving this matter much consideration I suppose the only feasible thing for me to do is to go into the kitchen and make something else good to eat to console myself. It's a cinch I'm not goi;ng to go on a diet — so why kid myself. Vive la fat!

Esther Largent recently brought me a sample of these little tidbits so I can attest to the fact that they are very, very good.

CHEESE-CHIVE GOODIES

Cream: 2 sticks oleo
¾ pound sharp grated cheese
Add: 2 cups flour
½ tsp. salt
2 Tbsp. chopped chives
½ tsp. red pepper

Then stir in two cups of rice krispies and roll into tiny balls, press down with a fork. Bake at 325 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes. Makes 8 to 10 dozen tiny balls.

This is really delicious. It is even better if made the day before and allowed to set.

CHICKEN SPAGHETTI

1 5-6 pound hen
1½ package spaghetti
2 chopped onions
1 can tomato paste
Worcestershire sauce
cayenne pepper
8 ounce can mushrooms
½ pound American cheese, grated
1 pinch sage
1 clove garlic
3 or 4 cloves
1 pinch celery seed
12 to 15 stuffed olives
1 Tbsp. chili powder
1 small can English peas

Stew hen until tender and dice when cold. Cook spaghetti. Skim fat from stock, add spaghetti to stock, place in large skillet and simmer. In another pan, brown onions in chicken fat, add tomato paste, season highly with Worcestershire sauce and pepper and add to spaghetti. Add rest of ingredients and cook until well blended. Remove garlic and cloves before serving. Serves 12.

Here is an easy and good way to satisfy the family sweet tooth.

BAKED PINEAPPLE

1 no. 2 can crushed pineapple
1 cup cracker crumbs
½ cup sugar
1 cup pineapple juice
1 stick butter

Place in baking dish in layers. alternating pineapple and crumbs. Combine juice and sugar. Add melted butter and pour over the top and bake at 325 degrees for one hour.

This is like a tart and a delicious fruit cake but better.

ORANGE SLICE CAKE

2 sticks oleo
2 cups sugar
4 eggs
1½ cups buttermilk
1 tsp. baking soda
¼ tsp. salt
4 cups flour
1 pound chopped dates
2 cups chopped pecans
1 pound candy orange slices, chopped

Cream butter and sugar and add eggs one at a time, beating well. Add one cup buttermilk and add soda to other one-half cup of milk. Then add to mixture. Combine dry ingredients. Add and beat well. Add orange slices, dates, and nuts and blend. Grease and flour a tube pan and bake slowly two and a half hours at 275 degrees.

Mix together, one small can of thawed orange juice with one-half cup brown sugar. Let stand while cake bakes. Pour on cake when it comes directly out of oven. Let cake cool in pan about two hours before removing.

Beef prices generally lower

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Beef prices generally dropped over last week, helping relieve holiday food buying consumers' pocketbooks, the Missouri Farm Bureau weekly shoppers' guide reported today.

Round steak prices led the way by dropping 13 cents to $1.69 per pound, followed by a nine cent drop in T-bone steak from $2.35 to $2.26.

Along with generally lower beef prices, pork cuts showed an eight cent drop in center cut chops which came in at $1.86. Butt portions dropped for the second straight week, this time three cents to $1.22.

Pork blade roasts, cut-up chickens and extra large eggs remained unchanged at last week's prices.

Ham rose a cent per pound, at $1.15 while ground beef dropped six cents to 76 cents per pound.

Ann Landers

Wife of 'quiet-aholic' wants more of marriage

Dear Ann Landers: You have printed letters from wife beaters, alcoholics and workaholics, but you have never printed a letter from the wife of a "quiet-aholic."

I'm talking about the man who truly cares for his family, provides a home for them, makes reapirs around the house and replaces broken appliances. His only fault is his silence. His parents are aware of it and his children are aware of it. Some friends are aware of it. Some of all, I am aware of it. He is my husband.

I have resorted to begging, crying, screaming, even a trial separation. We went for counseling once, but according to him the counseling was useless. He refused to go back.

My stomach is upset and I get headaches. My oldest son now asks, "What is wrong with daddy? He never talks."

I'm tired of unanswered questions and silent evenings. I have two beautiful children for which I am very grateful. But is it wrong for me to want more out of this marriage? -- Wedded To "A Clam With A Broken Hinge" (Your Phrase)

Dear Wedded: Since you are the one with the upset stomach and the headaches, I suggest solo counseling. Learn how (or if) you can open this man up. If he is hermetically sealed, decide whether or not you'd be better off without him. (I doubt it.) And for heaven's sake, surround youself with chatty women and opportunitie to verbalize in the daytime, or you'll wig out.

Dear Ann Landers: During my wife's first marriage she became pregnant by a man who was not her husband. Her husband may or may not have been aware of the affair. My wife was never sure. Legally, of course, the little girl was his.

As the child grew older she began to take on a striking resemblance to her real father. By that time my wife was divorced from her first husband so there was no scandal.

Seventeen years have passed. My wife hadn't heard one word from her daughter's daddy until today. He never so much as phoned to see how she was -- even after he must have known of the divorce.

His phone call today shook us to pieces. The dirty rat announced that he is coming over to introduce himself as her real father, on her 18th birthday.

I blew my cork. Why should this jerk, after not contributing an ounce of parental love or financial support for 18 years, take an ego trip at the expense of a severe emotional trauma for both my wife and stepdaughter?

My wife says, "Let the matter drop. He'll probably never show up." I want to confront him and tell him that if he does show up I will give him more grief than he can handle. I love my stepdaughter and don't want to see her hurt. Please advise. -- Hot But Staying Cool

Dear Hot: Your wife gave you good advice. Take it. If you threaten the man or do him bodily harm, the law will be on his side.

Legally, the girl's father is the man to whom her mother was married when she was born. Moreover, he may in actuality BE her father, in spite of the "striking resemblance." Nature plays funny tricks. So cool it, Dad, and stick to that story come hell or high water.

Consolation is making more goodies

By CHERIE BLANTON

I don't know about you but I am so full from all the holiday goodies. My "anchor" has expanded so much that I feel something has just got to be done. Well, after giving this matter much consideration I suppose the only feasible thing for me to do is to go into the kitchen and make something else good to eat to console myself. It's a cinch I'm not goi;ng to go on a diet — so why kid myself. Vive la fat!

Esther Largent recently brought me a sample of these little tidbits so I can attest to the fact that they are very, very good.

CHEESE-CHIVE GOODIES

Cream: 2 sticks oleo
¾ pound sharp grated cheese
Add: 2 cups flour
½ tsp. salt
2 Tbsp. chopped chives
½ tsp. red pepper

Then stir in two cups of rice krispies and roll into tiny balls, press down with a fork. Bake at 325 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes. Makes 8 to 10 dozen tiny balls.

This is really delicious. It is even better if made the day before and allowed to set.

CHICKEN SPAGHETTI

1 5-6 pound hen
1½ package spaghetti
2 chopped onions
1 can tomato paste
Worcestershire sauce
cayenne pepper
8 ounce can mushrooms
½ pound American cheese, grated
1 pinch sage
1 clove garlic
3 or 4 cloves
1 pinch celery seed
12 to 15 stuffed olives
1 Tbsp. chili powder
1 small can English peas

Stew hen until tender and dice when cold. Cook spaghetti. Skim fat from stock, add spaghetti to stock, place in large skillet and simmer. In another pan, brown onions in chicken fat, add tomato paste, season highly with Worcestershire sauce and pepper and add to spaghetti. Add rest of ingredients and cook until well blended. Remove garlic and cloves before serving. Serves 12.

Here is an easy and good way to satisfy the family sweet tooth.

BAKED PINEAPPLE

1 no. 2 can crushed pineapple
1 cup cracker crumbs
½ cup sugar
1 cup pineapple juice
1 stick butter

Place in baking dish in layers. alternating pineapple and crumbs. Combine juice and sugar. Add melted butter and pour over the top and bake at 325 degrees for one hour.

This is like a tart and a delicious fruit cake but better.

ORANGE SLICE CAKE

2 sticks oleo
2 cups sugar
4 eggs
1½ cups buttermilk
1 tsp. baking soda
¼ tsp. salt
4 cups flour
1 pound chopped dates
2 cups chopped pecans
1 pound candy orange slices, chopped

Cream butter and sugar and add eggs one at a time, beating well. Add one cup buttermilk and add soda to other one-half cup of milk. Then add to mixture. Combine dry ingredients. Add and beat well. Add orange slices, dates, and nuts and blend. Grease and flour a tube pan and bake slowly two and a half hours at 275 degrees.

Mix together, one small can of thawed orange juice with one-half cup brown sugar. Let stand while cake bakes. Pour on cake when it comes directly out of oven. Let cake cool in pan about two hours before removing.

Beef prices generally lower

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Beef prices generally dropped over last week, helping relieve holiday food buying consumers' pocketbooks, the Missouri Farm Bureau weekly shoppers' guide reported today.

Round steak prices led the way by dropping 13 cents to $1.69 per pound, followed by a nine cent drop in T-bone steak from $2.35 to $2.26.

Along with generally lower beef prices, pork cuts showed an eight cent drop in center cut chops which came in at $1.86. Butt portions dropped for the second straight week, this time three cents to $1.22.

Pork blade roasts, cut-up chickens and extra large eggs remained unchanged at last week's prices.

Ham rose a cent per pound, at $1.15 while ground beef dropped six cents to 76 cents per pound.

Ann Landers
Wife of 'quiet-aholic' wants more of marriage

Dear Ann Landers: You have printed letters from wife beaters, alcoholics and workaholics, but you have never printed a letter from the wife of a "quiet-aholic."

I'm talking about the man who truly cares for his family, provides a home for them, makes reapirs around the house and replaces broken appliances. His only fault is his silence. His parents are aware of it and his children are aware of it. Some friends are aware of it. Some of all, I am aware of it. He is my husband.

I have resorted to begging, crying, screaming, even a trial separation. We went for counseling once, but according to him the counseling was useless. He refused to go back.

My stomach is upset and I get headaches. My oldest son now asks, "What is wrong with daddy? He never talks."

I'm tired of unanswered questions and silent evenings. I have two beautiful children for which I am very grateful. But is it wrong for me to want more out of this marriage? -- Wedded To "A Clam With A Broken Hinge" (Your Phrase)

Dear Wedded: Since you are the one with the upset stomach and the headaches, I suggest solo counseling. Learn how (or if) you can open this man up. If he is hermetically sealed, decide whether or not you'd be better off without him. (I doubt it.) And for heaven's sake, surround youself with chatty women and opportunitie to verbalize in the daytime, or you'll wig out.

Dear Ann Landers: During my wife's first marriage she became pregnant by a man who was not her husband. Her husband may or may not have been aware of the affair. My wife was never sure. Legally, of course, the little girl was his.

As the child grew older she began to take on a striking resemblance to her real father. By that time my wife was divorced from her first husband so there was no scandal.

Seventeen years have passed. My wife hadn't heard one word from her daughter's daddy until today. He never so much as phoned to see how she was -- even after he must have known of the divorce.

His phone call today shook us to pieces. The dirty rat announced that he is coming over to introduce himself as her real father, on her 18th birthday.

I blew my cork. Why should this jerk, after not contributing an ounce of parental love or financial support for 18 years, take an ego trip at the expense of a severe emotional trauma for both my wife and stepdaughter?

My wife says, "Let the matter drop. He'll probably never show up." I want to confront him and tell him that if he does show up I will give him more grief than he can handle. I love my stepdaughter and don't want to see her hurt. Please advise. -- Hot But Staying Cool

Bernie considering peak-shaving system

BERNIE — The city is considering a plan which could save thousands of dollar in heating costs over the next several years if the winters are very cold, but the initial investment is high.

The plan being considered is a gas peak-shaving system. Simply stated, it is a plant which would mix propane gas with natural gas, which would then be sent to city homes.

Mayor R. B. Woods said the city owns its own gas supply system, but that the gas is bought from Texas Eastern Gas Co. and that it has a quota on the amount of gas provided. A penalty is charged for gas supplied over the quota.

There is a daily quota and a yearly quota, and Woods said the city has no problem staying within the daily limits. During an extremely cold winter, however, the yearly limit may be exceeded.

If there is a 10 per cent overrun, then the penalty charged could amount to about $30,000 per year. With the peak-shaving system, this amount could be saved, and over a few winters the system could pay for itself.

Randy Thomas of St. Louis, an engineer hired by the city to study the situation and make a recommendation, told the council Monday night that he thought the matter should be pursued further before a decision is made.

The problem is that no one really knows how cold the coming winters are going to be. Woods said that the winters of 1972 and 1973 were very cold, and that the system would be worthwhile if the weather gets that cold very often.

This winter has been warm so far, however, and has presented no problem, Woods said. The City Council is undecided about which direction to go.

It is not a matter of not having the money to make the investment. The money would not be hard to come by, since the city gas company is a money-making proposition, Wood said.

The reason for the system, rather thanjust providing the city with propane gas, is that propane gas is heavier than air and natural gas is lighter than air, Woods explained.

If somebody's pilot light were to go out, natural gas would dissipate rapidly, but propane gas could accumulate, with the increased possibility of an explosion occurring.

By mixing the propane and natural gas, the fuel is still light enough that if a pilot light goes out, the danger of gas gathering and exploding is less.

The City Council discussed the matter at Monday night's meeting, but came to no decision.

The council did act, however, on a request to allow plastic sewer lines to be used in the city. After looking into the matter, the council decided that plastic truss lines of double wall construction would be allowed.

Woods said that cost of the plastic line which meets specifications is about the same as clay pipe that meets specifications, but that plastic pipe can now be used if preferred.

The council also decided to advertise for bids from now on for insurance, gasoline and other supplies which are used by the city in quantity.

Bids will be requested not only in the local paper, but also inout-of-town papers, Woods said.

The decision was made after a report was issued by the State which was critical of many Missouri cities which did not ask for bids for companies out of town.

Woods said Bernie was not included in the list.

W. M. Allen, a member of the Bernie Cemetery Board, also met with the council and told them an agreement had been reached between cemetery trustees and the city.

There had been a problem in the administration of the cemetery since part is city-owned and part is privately owned, Woods said.

The agreement amounts to a dual board to oversee cemetery affairs, Woods said.

People worth watching in 1975

DEL MAR, Calif. (AP) — Football star O.J. Simpson and Nancy Kissinger were worth watching in 1975, according to the International Societies of Woman and Men Watchers.

Simpson was chosen as the "Most Watchable Man of 1975." Mrs. Kissinger, the wife of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, was picked the "Most Watchable Woman."

Trailing Simpson were: actor Omar Sharif, singer John Denver, television newscaster Tom Brokaw, Hewlett-Packard president David Packard, Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., golfer Jack Nicklaus, tennis player John Newcombe, Prince Rainier of Monaco and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

Trailing Mrs. Kissinger were actress Ann-Margret, British Conservative party leader Margaret Thatcher, television announcer Phyllis George, socialite Mrs. James Knox of La Jolla, Calif., Secretary of Housing and Urban Development Carla Hills, singer Olivia Newton-John, Susan Ford, daughter of President Ford, and Catherine Hearst, wife of newspaper executive Randolph A. Hearst.

The societies, both headquartered here, say their choices are based on poise, personal appearance and accomplishments.

The South's "hush puppies," served with fried fish dinners, traditionally originated at a fish fry when someone dropped the corn bread batter into the kettle of heated fat and tossed the fried cakes to the hungry dogs to quiet their whining.

SHS wrestlers handle Cape

The Sikeston Bulldog wrestling team overcame the handicap of going without two of their starters to record their most important victory of the season Tuesday night, a 29-20 victory over a tough Cape Central squad at Cape Girardeau.

Sikeston was forced to find replacements for Bill Paxton and Tony Taylor, who quit the ream over the holiday break. Paxton had been one of the Bulldogs' more reliable performers in the past, but has been wrestling most of the season with a nagging shoulder injury which made competing very painful. No reason was given why Taylor left the squad.

Taylor's replacement, Mark DeWitt, was pinned in the very first period in his first varsity match, in the 138-pound class. Gaylon Couch stepped in for Paxton in the 145-pound division and came away with a 9-9 tie.

After Central's Mark Stevens pinned Joe Blanton in the opening 98-pound match, Sikeston reeled off three straight victories, including a pin by reliable 105-pounder Ken Hotchkiss. That string of wins by the SHS matmen gave them a 12-3 lead. The two powerful SeMo Wrestling Conference squads traded victories in the remaining matches.

Bulldog captain Scott Hutchison kept alive a regular season winning streak going back to his sophomore year by pinning Mike Parsons in the second period. Also winning by pin for Siketon was 155-pounder Linzie Lambert, who put away Jim Young in the opening period.

The Sikeston junior varisty had a little easier time of it, winning a 45-21 match from the Tiger backups. The Bulldog B team showed their promise by winning eight of the twelve matches, including five pins.

The Central match was the first segment of a two-part challenge for coach John Heacox's Sikeston team. The Bulldogs will take on traditional rival Jackson Thursday night at Jackson. Sikeston has had to settle for second place in the conference for the past several years, yielding to the perennial conference champion Indians of coach Paul Webber. Coach Heacox says that he thinks this will be the year when his team will finally make it to the top of the SeMo wrestling heap. While Jackson doesn'thave the powerhouse squad they have had in the past, they are sure to be sky-high for this emotional match in their home gymnasium and will be sure to give Sikeston all the trouble they care for.

Mules hold off Caruthersville

CARUTHERSVILLE — The Poplar Bluff Mules cashed in on some clutch freethrow attempts in the closing minutes to preserve a 54-50 win over the Caruthersville Tigers Tuesday night at Caruthersville.

The Mules took advantage of some below-par shooting by the Caruthersville team to open up a big lead early in the game. The Tigers hit on only 8 of 28 field goal attempts in the first half and were down 29-16 at the intermission.

Coach Hugh James sent the Caruthersville squad into a pressure defense in the second half which enabled his team to charge back. The shots finally began falling in for the Tigers, who finished the game with a respectable 43 per cent shooting figure, despite the miserable first half. Caruthersville trimmed three points off the Mules lead in the third period, then made their comeback complete by knotting up the score with three minutes to go. But the Tigers could never take the lead. Poplar Bluff opened up a lead of as much as six points in the final minute, and despite the valiant attempts of the Tigers to even things up again, the Mules hit enough freethrows to hold off the charge.

Dale Hinton fired in 18 points for the Mules while teammate Dennis Duncan added 14. Buddy Knox and Don Tyes had 12 each for Caruthersville.

Poplar Bluff won the B game 69-37.

Bluejays use trapping defense to stop Eagles

CHARLESTON---If you want to liven up a dull basketball game and you have some quickness and speed then put in a halfcourt zone trap. That's what coach Mitch Haskins of the CHS Bluejays did here Tuesday night and the strategy allowed The Daily Standard's second ranked Bluejays to come away with a convincing 72-56 victory over the East Prairie Eagles.

For the first quarter and five minutes of the second it looked as if Grady Williford of East Prairie was single handily going to outscore the Bluejay entire team as the Eagles, behind the sharpshooting guard, took a 26-23 lead with three minutes left in the second period before Charleston went into their trap and the defense caused the Bluejays to run a string of 16 unanswered points to forge ahead 39-30 at the intermission.

Turnovers kept the Bluejays from completely blowing the Eagles out in the second half as EPHS outscored Charleston 14-12 in the third period behind the shooting of Williford in particular. Grady ended the game with a total of 25 points.

Ricky Frazier controlled the backboards for Charleston and kept the East Prairie zone press broken up with his dribbling and dropped in 22 points in the game.

Jr. High teams lose two

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Foul trouble sent two frontliners to the bench, aided a fourth- quarter surge by Cape's freshmen, and gave Cape a double win in junior high school basketball. The duo of Hines and Haskell teamed for 40 points in the 58-48 Tiger freshman victory. Just previously, a zone press gave the Cape eighth graders a 44-26 decision.

Sam Warfield and Garland Beaudean fouled out in the fourth quarter for Mike Foster's freshman squad. The duo of Hines and Haskell, each of whom towers above the 6-foot-3 mark, took over the game from that point and the frosh Tigers outscored Sikeston 25-12, wiping out a 3- point lead held by the Bulldogs.

It was a cold first period that spelled defeat for Sikeston the first time the two squads met, but this time the Dogs jumped to the early lead. Guard Jeff Young held the hot hand for Sikeston most of the game, popping in 23 points. Warfield added 12.

Sikeston led 14-12 after a period. It was 27-26 at half, still Sikeston's edge. Then, the visitors again outscored the taller host team, 9-7 in the third frame. The Sikeston led was three, 36-33, entering the fourth quarter.

But, in that fatal fourth period the fouls began to tell on Sikeston. Hines scored 23 points, 11 of them free throws and eight of those free throws in the last eight minutes. Cape was more successful at the charity line, 18 of 25 tries for 72 per cent to 14 of 24 by Sikeston, a 58 per cent successful mark.

The Bulldog freshmen play Jackson at the SHS fieldhouse next Thursday night, following a 4:30 eighth grade game.

The freshman record is 5-3.

Sikeston's eighth grade basketball couldn't cope with the Central 2-2-1 zone press in the second and third periods and the Tigers blew them out of the game.

Coach Ford Morgan warned his players about the press and Sikeston held their own in the first period and each team scored nine points apiece, but Cape Central took the lead in the second period, scoring 14 points to Sikeston's six and led 23-15 at the half.

The third period was the disasterous one for Sikeston. The Bulldogs were unable to get the ball down court and Cape outscored them 16-1 in the period. That put the game out of reach.

Panthers win 9th

LILBOURN — The LHS Panthers ran their season record to 9-3 with an easy 79-41 victory over the Gideon Bulldogs here Tuesday night in a New Madrid county conference game.

After a slow start in the first quarter in which the Gideon team outscored the Panthers 13-12, Lilbourn came out pressing and ran to a 21-8 advantage in the second period and coasted the rest of the way.

Lilbourn hit 33 shots from the field to 13 for Gideon. Don Treadwell was high point man for Lilbourn with 22. Harris scored 14 to lead Gideon.

Sanderson's shorthanded goal lifts Blues to 5-2 win

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Rookie goaltender Doug Soetaert, as it turned out, only thought he had a bead on Derek Sanderson's breakaway during the second period.

But, alas, the lessons learned by Sanderson during eight National Hockey League seasons were more than the 20-year-old Soetaert could match Tuesday night.

"It was just inexperience," Soetaert said after yielding Sanderson's key goal in a 5-2 New York Rangers loss to the St. Louis Blues.

"You've got to work on those things," the young Ranger noted. "I should have played a little more to my left and cut off the angle, and then I could have stopped him. It hit off the heel of my glove."

Until the Sanderson goal, Soetaert's shot-stopping had formed a major part of New York's comeback from a 3-0 early deficit.

"I told myself after the first period, 'why let yourself get so excited?'" he recalled. "You just can't get too nervous. You have to settle down. I thought I had until that last goal."

Early salvos by Claude Larose, both set up by Chuck Lefley, staked St. Louis to 2-0 lead before Pierre Plante beat Soetaert with a screened shot late in the opening period.

Then, however, Ron Greschner rebounded Phil Esposito's shot and Pete Stemkowski scored only 57 seconds after the Blues' Ted Irvine, drawing New York to 4-2.

Carol Vadnais, Steve Vickers and Esposito all rammed unsuccessful power play shots at St. Louis goalie Ed Johnston before Sanderson intercepted a Rod Gilbert pass.

With Gilbert in full pursuit, Sanderson skated down the right side of the rink and lifted a backhand shot from Soetaert's left that dribbled into the net at 16:34.

"I think he thought I was coming across the crease," Sanderson suggested in respect to Soetaert, who finished by kicking out 30 of 35 St. Louis shots.

"He just about caught it in his glove," Sanderson added. "I think that broke their backs, because before that they were coming back pretty good."

The defeat, the Rangers' third in a row, dropped their last-place record in the NHL's Patrick Division to 15-20-4 and left Coach Ron Stewart in an unpleasant mood.

"He played super," Stewart said in defense of Soetaert, whose appearance was only his fourth in the NHL. "It's just too bad it didn't rub off on some of the rest of them."

More satisfied was the Blues' new coach, Leo Boivin, whose successful debut followed his seven-game term as an assistant.

"I was pleased with our first period," said Boivin, his team in firm control of third place in the Conn Smythe Division. "We skated well, and you have to skate to win this game."

Hawks rip BHS Wildcats 83-59

BLOOMFIELD — Height problems and disciplinary action cost the Bloomfield Wildcats a 24-point loss, 83-59, to the Kelly Hawks. The Hawks' Ron Schlosser poured in 23 points to help insure the win for coach Nick Lanpher. Kenny Jackson scored 22 for the losers.

High-scoring Bill Rickman left the starting lineup midway through the first quarter and the Hawks capitalized on his absence to score a flurry of points and take the lead at 22-15. Building that lead to 42-33 at half, Kelly was never threatened the rest of the way.

Ron Hagar scored 13 points for the winners and David Robert had 14. Tim Holden scored 13 for Bloomfield.

Kelly claimed the double win with a 68-52 win in the B-game. Riley had 19 points for Kelly.

SHS wrestlers handle Cape

The Sikeston Bulldog wrestling team overcame the handicap of going without two of their starters to record their most important victory of the season Tuesday night, a 29-20 victory over a tough Cape Central squad at Cape Girardeau.

Sikeston was forced to find replacements for Bill Paxton and Tony Taylor, who quit the ream over the holiday break. Paxton had been one of the Bulldogs' more reliable performers in the past, but has been wrestling most of the season with a nagging shoulder injury which made competing very painful. No reason was given why Taylor left the squad.

Taylor's replacement, Mark DeWitt, was pinned in the very first period in his first varsity match, in the 138-pound class. Gaylon Couch stepped in for Paxton in the 145-pound division and came away with a 9-9 tie.

After Central's Mark Stevens pinned Joe Blanton in the opening 98-pound match, Sikeston reeled off three straight victories, including a pin by reliable 105-pounder Ken Hotchkiss. That string of wins by the SHS matmen gave them a 12-3 lead. The two powerful SeMo Wrestling Conference squads traded victories in the remaining matches.

Bulldog captain Scott Hutchison kept alive a regular season winning streak going back to his sophomore year by pinning Mike Parsons in the second period. Also winning by pin for Siketon was 155-pounder Linzie Lambert, who put away Jim Young in the opening period.

The Sikeston junior varisty had a little easier time of it, winning a 45-21 match from the Tiger backups. The Bulldog B team showed their promise by winning eight of the twelve matches, including five pins.

The Central match was the first segment of a two-part challenge for coach John Heacox's Sikeston team. The Bulldogs will take on traditional rival Jackson Thursday night at Jackson. Sikeston has had to settle for second place in the conference for the past several years, yielding to the perennial conference champion Indians of coach Paul Webber. Coach Heacox says that he thinks this will be the year when his team will finally make it to the top of the SeMo wrestling heap. While Jackson doesn'thave the powerhouse squad they have had in the past, they are sure to be sky-high for this emotional match in their home gymnasium and will be sure to give Sikeston all the trouble they care for.

Mules hold off Caruthersville

CARUTHERSVILLE — The Poplar Bluff Mules cashed in on some clutch freethrow attempts in the closing minutes to preserve a 54-50 win over the Caruthersville Tigers Tuesday night at Caruthersville.

The Mules took advantage of some below-par shooting by the Caruthersville team to open up a big lead early in the game. The Tigers hit on only 8 of 28 field goal attempts in the first half and were down 29-16 at the intermission.

Coach Hugh James sent the Caruthersville squad into a pressure defense in the second half which enabled his team to charge back. The shots finally began falling in for the Tigers, who finished the game with a respectable 43 per cent shooting figure, despite the miserable first half. Caruthersville trimmed three points off the Mules lead in the third period, then made their comeback complete by knotting up the score with three minutes to go. But the Tigers could never take the lead. Poplar Bluff opened up a lead of as much as six points in the final minute, and despite the valiant attempts of the Tigers to even things up again, the Mules hit enough freethrows to hold off the charge.

Dale Hinton fired in 18 points for the Mules while teammate Dennis Duncan added 14. Buddy Knox and Don Tyes had 12 each for Caruthersville.

Poplar Bluff won the B game 69-37.

Bluejays use trapping defense to stop Eagles

CHARLESTON---If you want to liven up a dull basketball game and you have some quickness and speed then put in a halfcourt zone trap. That's what coach Mitch Haskins of the CHS Bluejays did here Tuesday night and the strategy allowed The Daily Standard's second ranked Bluejays to come away with a convincing 72-56 victory over the East Prairie Eagles.

For the first quarter and five minutes of the second it looked as if Grady Williford of East Prairie was single handily going to outscore the Bluejay entire team as the Eagles, behind the sharpshooting guard, took a 26-23 lead with three minutes left in the second period before Charleston went into their trap and the defense caused the Bluejays to run a string of 16 unanswered points to forge ahead 39-30 at the intermission.

Turnovers kept the Bluejays from completely blowing the Eagles out in the second half as EPHS outscored Charleston 14-12 in the third period behind the shooting of Williford in particular. Grady ended the game with a total of 25 points.

Ricky Frazier controlled the backboards for Charleston and kept the East Prairie zone press broken up with his dribbling and dropped in 22 points in the game.

Panthers win 9th

LILBOURN — The LHS Panthers ran their season record to 9-3 with an easy 79-41 victory over the Gideon Bulldogs here Tuesday night in a New Madrid county conference game.

After a slow start in the first quarter in which the Gideon team outscored the Panthers 13-12, Lilbourn came out pressing and ran to a 21-8 advantage in the second period and coasted the rest of the way.

Lilbourn hit 33 shots from the field to 13 for Gideon. Don Treadwell was high point man for Lilbourn with 22. Harris scored 14 to lead Gideon.

Jr. High teams lose two

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Foul trouble sent two frontliners to the bench, aided a fourth- quarter surge by Cape's freshmen, and gave Cape a double win in junior high school basketball. The duo of Hines and Haskell teamed for 40 points in the 58-48 Tiger freshman victory. Just previously, a zone press gave the Cape eighth graders a 44-26 decision.

Sam Warfield and Garland Beaudean fouled out in the fourth quarter for Mike Foster's freshman squad. The duo of Hines and Haskell, each of whom towers above the 6-foot-3 mark, took over the game from that point and the frosh Tigers outscored Sikeston 25-12, wiping out a 3-point lead held by the Bulldogs.

It was a cold first period that spelled defeat for Sikeston the first time the two squads met, but this time the Dogs jumped to the early lead. Guard Jeff Young held the hot hand for Sikeston most of the game, popping in 23 points. Warfield added 12.

Sikeston led 14-12 after a period. It was 27-26 at half, still Sikeston's edge. Then, the visitors again outscored the taller host team, 9-7 in the third frame. The Sikeston led was three, 36-33, entering the fourth quarter.

But, in that fatal fourth period the fouls began to tell on Sikeston. Hines scored 23 points, 11 of them free throws and eight of those free throws in the last eight minutes. Cape was more successful at the charity line, 18 of 25 tries for 72 per cent to 14 of 24 by Sikeston, a 58 per cent successful mark.

The Bulldog freshmen play Jackson at the SHS fieldhouse next Thursday night, following a 4:30 eighth grade game.

The freshman record is 5-3.

Sikeston's eighth grade basketball couldn't cope with the Central 2-2-1 zone press in the second and third periods and the Tigers blew them out of the game.

Coach Ford Morgan warned his players about the press and Sikeston held their own in the first period and each team scored nine points apiece, but Cape Central took the lead in the second period, scoring 14 points to Sikeston's six and led 23-15 at the half.

The third period was the disasterous one for Sikeston. The Bulldogs were unable to get the ball down court and Cape outscored them 16-1 in the period. That put the game out of reach.

Royal Ignorance

Due to ignorance of the English language, the German-born Hanoverian kings allowed much of their power to fall under the control of subordinates and ministers thus spawning the concept of government by political party.

Sanderson's shorthanded goal lifts Blues to 5-2 win

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Rookie goaltender Doug Soetaert, as it turned out, only thought he had a bead on Derek Sanderson's breakaway during the second period.

But, alas, the lessons learned by Sanderson during eight National Hockey League seasons were more than the 20-year-old Soetaert could match Tuesday night.

"It was just inexperience," Soetaert said after yielding Sanderson's key goal in a 5-2 New York Rangers loss to the St. Louis Blues.

"You've got to work on those things," the young Ranger noted. "I should have played a little more to my left and cut off the angle, and then I could have stopped him. It hit off the heel of my glove."

Until the Sanderson goal, Soetaert's shot-stopping had formed a major part of New York's comeback from a 3-0 early deficit.

"I told myself after the first period, 'why let yourself get so excited?'" he recalled. "You just can't get too nervous. You have to settle down. I thought I had until that last goal."

Early salvos by Claude Larose, both set up by Chuck Lefley, staked St. Louis to 2-0 lead before Pierre Plante beat Soetaert with a screened shot late in the opening period.

Then, however, Ron Greschner rebounded Phil Esposito's shot and Pete Stemkowski scored only 57 seconds after the Blues' Ted Irvine, drawing New York to 4-2.

Carol Vadnais, Steve Vickers and Esposito all rammed unsuccessful power play shots at St. Louis goalie Ed Johnston before Sanderson intercepted a Rod Gilbert pass.

With Gilbert in full pursuit, Sanderson skated down the right side of the rink and lifted a backhand shot from Soetaert's left that dribbled into the net at 16:34.

"I think he thought I was coming across the crease," Sanderson suggested in respect to Soetaert, who finished by kicking out 30 of 35 St. Louis shots.

"He just about caught it in his glove," Sanderson added. "I think that broke their backs, because before that they were coming back pretty good."

The defeat, the Rangers' third in a row, dropped their last-place record in the NHL's Patrick Division to 15-20-4 and left Coach Ron Stewart in an unpleasant mood.

"He played super," Stewart said in defense of Soetaert, whose appearance was only his fourth in the NHL. "It's just too bad it didn't rub off on some of the rest of them."

More satisfied was the Blues' new coach, Leo Boivin, whose successful debut followed his seven-game term as an assistant.

"I was pleased with our first period," said Boivin, his team in firm control of third place in the Conn Smythe Division. "We skated well, and you have to skate to win this game."

Hawks rip BHS Wildcats 83-59

BLOOMFIELD — Height problems and disciplinary action cost the Bloomfield Wildcats a 24-point loss, 83-59, to the Kelly Hawks. The Hawks' Ron Schlosser poured in 23 points to help insure the win for coach Nick Lanpher. Kenny Jackson scored 22 for the losers.

High-scoring Bill Rickman left the starting lineup midway through the first quarter and the Hawks capitalized on his absence to score a flurry of points and take the lead at 22-15. Building that lead to 42-33 at half, Kelly was never threatened the rest of the way.

Ron Hagar scored 13 points for the winners and David Robert had 14. Tim Holden scored 13 for Bloomfield.

Kelly claimed the double win with a 68-52 win in the B-game. Riley had 19 points for Kelly.

After reserve clause ruling:

Owners call special meeting

NEW YORK (AP) — Major league baseball, with dates in court and at the negotiating table for a pair of adversary proceedings, has planned a special meeting among friends Jan. 14 in Scottsdale, Ariz.

Baseball, shaken by last month's historic arbitration decision that made free agents of pitchers Andy Messersmith and Dave McNally, will attempt to get its house in order during the meeting involving both the American and National leagues.

M. Donald Grant, chairman of the board of the New York Mets and head of baseball's franchise committee, said there were three reasons for the meeting.

"First is the players relations report," Grant said, "second is the consideration of various people interested in buying the San Francisco Giants, and third is the report and the suggestion of the franchise committee subsequent to something happening in the area of our franchise problems."

After baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn on Monday night announced the special meeting, reports circulated that the owners would hear a franchise committee recommendation that the Oakland A's should move to Seattle, which has a lawsuit against the American League set to begin Jan. 12. The report said each major league club would ante $250,000 to buy off the A's lease with the city of Oakland.

"There is no truth to that report insofar as the committee is concerned," Grant said.

In Chicago, Charles O. Finley, owner of the A's, said he wasn't going to move his team.

"No way, no way," said Finley. "Rumors are a dime a dozen. It's just another rumor. I went to Oakland in 1968 and ever since I've been in Oakland, rumors have had me moving to Seattle, New Orleans, Chicago, Toronto and Washington D.C. There hasn't been any truth to any of them.

"We've been in Oakland eight years and I'd like to feel we've established some credibility. We've won five division titles and three world championships. Frankly, I love the Bay Area and I like to think the fans love us a little."

Grant said his committee planned no recommendation at the Jan. 14 meeting and could not until baseball solved some of its franchise problems, such as the Seattle suit — filed because the Brewers left Seattle for Milwaukee; gaining a team for Washington D.C., and removing one team from the congested San Francisco Bay area.

A baseball source said the franchise committee would issue a report but called that presentation "a smokescreen."

"The real problem," the source said, "is the contract and the report by the owners' players relations committee. That's much more important."

Marvin Miller, executive director of the players association, agreed that the real purpose for baseball's hurry-up meeting was to discuss the ongoing negotiations with the players union.

Miller said his union and the owners, who refused to bargain on the reserve rule in the past, "still haven't talked about it (the reserve rule) in any depth. But I think it's a fair statement to say that both parties are prepared to negotiate on every issue."

Scott Hutchison (top) and Tony DeLaRosa (bottom) have been key figures on this year's Sikeston Bulldog wrestling team. The Bulldogs beat Cape Central last night and will take on rival Jackson Thursday night at Jackson.

Woodland is easy winner

LUTESVILLE — Mike Moyers scored 22 points to lead the Woodland Cardinals past the Greenville bears 79-42 here Tuesday night.

Woodland surged to a 26-10 first period lead and kept adding to the score in the second and third periods until they had built up a comfortable 66-25 lead at the end of the third period. Greenville was unable to do anything with the constant pressure that the Cardinals' defense put on them.

Bobby Golden was the only Bear player in double figures with 11.

Woodland won the JV game on the strength of a 40-foot shot by Dan VanGinnip at the final buzzer 50-48.

Cooter whips S. Pemiscot

COOTER — The Cooter Wildcats overcame a sluggish first period and bounced back to knock off South Pemiscot 68-63 Tuesday night in a game between traditional Bootheel Conference rivals.

South Pemiscot jumped out to a 22-18 lead after the opening period. The Bulldogs cooled off somewhat in the second quarter but still held a 36-33 lead at the half

Cooter made their big move in the third period, outscoring the Bulldogs 17-12 and taking a 50-48 lead. The Wildcats led by as much as six in the fourth period, but never could put the game away. South Pemiscot threatened to regain the lead several times late in the game, but Cooter maintained their lead. Robert Jones gunned in 18 for the Wildcats, while sophomore Larry Burton added 17. Rebels romp over Cubs

BELL CITY — Seniors Roger McAnulty and Jim Clay combined for 43 points Tuesday night to lead the Richland Rebels to an 84-56 victory over the Bell City Cubs in a Stoddard County basketball game at Bell City.

Bell City played the game without three of their starters. Sol Byrd missed the contest with a back injury, while Leonard Gross twisted an ankle early in the first quarter and missed most of the ballgame. Francis Mosley didn't show up for the ballgame.

Richland put the game away early, outscoring the Cubs 21-4 in the first quarter and taking a 42-15 halftime lead. Rebel Coach Danny Rowland substituted freely in the second half, with nine different players getting in on the scoring action.

McAnulty fired in 23 for the Richland team, while Clay added 20. Junior Sylvester Patterson threw in 14 to help out.

Scott Weeks led the losing effort with 16 for the Cubs, while Pat Niemczyk added 15 and Dan Scherer scored 13.

Richland's B team remained undefeated, crushing Bell City 72-44 in the opener.

Dexter trips Indians

DEXTER--Three Dexter Bearcats scored a dozen points apiece to lead coach Jim Hall's squad to a 68-40 rom over New Madrid. Mark Guethle, Mike Williams and Greg Miller were the leading scorers for the winning team, while only Lee Hunter's ten points were in the double figure column for New Madrid. Dexter's record is 7-5.

The Bearcats led most of the first quarter while outscoring the visitors 17-12. By half the lead was expanded to 35-20 and the second half was more of the same. New Madrid lacked the size and scoring power to overtake the SEMO conference team. Nine players scored for Dexter, as Hall emptied his bench.

New Madrid guaranteed themselves a split of the night's activities by grabbing a close 39-37 decision in the B game. Glass scored ten for the Indians. Jarrell had 12 for Dexter.

Seek games for semipro team

A St. Louis- based semipro baseball team is seeking out-state games for the upcoming season. Area coaches who are interested should contact Tom Murphy, 1066 Briar Brae, St., St. Louis, Mo. 63138.

After reserve clause ruling:

Owners call special meeting

NEW YORK (AP) — Major league baseball, with dates in court and at the negotiating table for a pair of adversary proceedings, has planned a special meeting among friends Jan. 14 in Scottsdale, Ariz.

Baseball, shaken by last month's historic arbitration decision that made free agents of pitchers Andy Messersmith and Dave McNally, will attempt to get its house in order during the meeting involving both the American and National leagues.

M. Donald Grant, chairman of the board of the New York Mets and head of baseball's franchise committee, said there were three reasons for the meeting.

"First is the players relations report," Grant said, "second is the consideration of various people interested in buying the San Francisco Giants, and third is the report and the suggestion of the franchise committee subsequent to something happening in the area of our franchise problems."

After baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn on Monday night announced the special meeting, reports circulated that the owners would hear a franchise committee recommendation that the Oakland A's should move to Seattle, which has a lawsuit against the American League set to begin Jan. 12. The report said each major league club would ante $250,000 to buy off the A's lease with the city of Oakland.

"There is no truth to that report insofar as the committee is concerned," Grant said.

In Chicago, Charles O. Finley, owner of the A's, said he wasn't going to move his team.

"No way, no way," said Finley. "Rumors are a dime a dozen. It's just another rumor. I went to Oakland in 1968 and ever since I've been in Oakland, rumors have had me moving to Seattle, New Orleans, Chicago, Toronto and Washington D.C. There hasn't been any truth to any of them.

"We've been in Oakland eight years and I'd like to feel we've established some credibility. We've won five division titles and three world championships. Frankly, I love the Bay Area and I like to think the fans love us a little."

Grant said his committee planned no recommendation at the Jan. 14 meeting and could not until baseball solved some of its franchise problems, such as the Seattle suit — filed because the Brewers left Seattle for Milwaukee; gaining a team for Washington D.C., and removing one team from the congested San Francisco Bay area.

A baseball source said the franchise committee would issue a report but called that presentation "a smokescreen."

"The real problem," the source said, "is the contract and the report by the owners' players relations committee. That's much more important."

Marvin Miller, executive director of the players association, agreed that the real purpose for baseball's hurry-up meeting was to discuss the ongoing negotiations with the players union.

Miller said his union and the owners, who refused to bargain on the reserve rule in the past, "still haven't talked about it (the reserve rule) in any depth. But I think it's a fair statement to say that both parties are prepared to negotiate on every issue."

Woodland is easy winner

LUTESVILLE — Mike Moyers scored 22 points to lead the Woodland Cardinals past the Greenville bears 79-42 here Tuesday night.

Woodland surged to a 26-10 first period lead and kept adding to the score in the second and third periods until they had built up a comfortable 66-25 lead at the end of the third period. Greenville was unable to do anything with the constant pressure that the Cardinals' defense put on them.

Bobby Golden was the only Bear player in double figures with 11.

Woodland won the JV game on the strength of a 40-foot shot by Dan VanGinnip at the final buzzer 50-48.

Cooter whips S. Pemiscot

COOTER — The Cooter Wildcats overcame a sluggish first period and bounced back to knock off South Pemiscot 68-63 Tuesday night in a game between traditional Bootheel Conference rivals.

South Pemiscot jumped out to a 22-18 lead after the opening period. The Bulldogs cooled off somewhat in the second quarter but still held a 36-33 lead at the half.

Cooter made their big move in the third period, outscoring the Bulldogs 17-12 and taking a 50-48 lead. The Wildcats led by as much as six in the fourth period, but never could put the game away. South Pemiscot threatened to regain the lead several times late in the game, but Cooter maintained their lead. Robert Jones gunned in 18 for the Wildcats, while sophomore Larry Burton added 17. Jerry Archer paced South Pemiscot with 23, while Martin added 19 for the losers.

Rebels romp over Cubs

BELL CITY — Seniors Roger McAnulty and Jim Clay combined for 43 points Tuesday night to lead the Richland Rebels to an 84-56 victory over the Bell City Cubs in a Stoddard County basketball game at Bell City.

Bell City played the game without three of their starters. Sol Byrd missed the contest with a back injury, while Leonard Gross twisted an ankle early in the first quarter and missed most of the ballgame. Francis Mosley didn't show up for the ballgame.

Richland put the game away early, outscoring the Cubs 21-4 in the first quarter and taking a 42-15 halftime lead. Rebel Coach Danny Rowland substituted freely in the second half, with nine different players getting in on the scoring action.

McAnulty fired in 23 for the Richland team, while Clay added 20. Junior Sylvester Patterson threw in 14 to help out.

Scott Weeks led the losing effort with 16 for the Cubs, while Pat Niemczyk added 15 and Dan Scherer scored 13.

Richland's B team remained undefeated, crushing Bell City 72-44 in the opener.

Dexter trips Indians

DEXTER--Three Dexter Bearcats scored a dozen points apiece to lead coach Jim Hall's squad to a 68-40 rom over New Madrid. Mark Guethle, Mike Williams and Greg Miller were the leading scorers for the winning team, while only Lee Hunter's ten points were in the double figure column for New Madrid. Dexter's record is 7-5.

The Bearcats led most of the first quarter while outscoring the visitors 17-12. By half the lead was expanded to 35-20 and the second half was more of the same. New Madrid lacked the size and scoring power to overtake the SEMO conference team. Nine players scored for Dexter, as Hall emptied his bench.

New Madrid guaranteed themselves a split of the night's activities by grabbing a close 39-37 decision in the B game. Glass scored ten for the Indians. Jarrell had 12 for Dexter.

'1776' comes to Dexter

Led by the senator from South Carolina, four delegates to the Continental Congress firmly state their opposition to signing the Declaration of Independence. The lively and witty musical, "1776", will be presented by Continental Theatre Co. in the Dexter High School auditorium Sunday at 4 p.m.

History becomes fun in musical

DEXTER — "1776", one of Broadway's most brilliantly successful musicals will be presented by Continental Theatre Co. at 4 p.m. Sunday in the Dexter High School auditorium.

The events that occurred in Independence Hall during that hot summer of 1776 have become a rousing, heartening and glowing musical retelling of the story of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

The unusual aspect of "1776" is that it humanizes the personal conflicts that erupted in the Continental Congress as it rose to the momentous decision to cut the American colonies loose from Engleand and form a new nation.

In history books the founding fathers are often painted in heroic poses of foresighted, patriotic and selfless statesmen. But "1776" depicts them somewhat differently -- as human, fallible, sometimes petty, sometimes magnificent men with a variety of strengths, problems and weaknesses. The show has fun with their blindings, timidities and quirks of character.

John Adams, pushy and insistent on independence, is shouted down by his colleagues when he tries to stir the delegates into some action. Al' Adams gets for his trouble is a rousing chorus from the delegates who sing a thunderous "Sit down, John!"

Benjamin Franklin is present, also — a wise, foxy old gaffer, full of aphorisms, plagued by gout and confident of the good report of history.

Thomas Jefferson comes alive on stage as not only the great drafter of the Declaration of Independence, but as an ardent young husband so homesick for his wife he can hardly concentrate on the declaration. His conflicts with the fiery Adams are packed with wit and humor to offer delightful entertainment throughout the show.

The cast of "1776" abound in other famous founding fathers engaged in passioneate wrangles and poisonous insults. Such characters include the proud Richard Henry Lee of Virginia and John Dickinson of Pennsylvania, leader of he conservatives who fought against the declaration and wanted to remain loyal to England. All told, 14 signers of the famous document are seen in the musical.

Five signers of the declaration were to be captured by the British and executed as traitors. Twelve had their homes ransacked and burned. Two lost sons in the Revolutinarry War. One had two sons captured. Nine of the 56 signers fought and died of wounds or of the hardships from the Revolution.

Complex, courageous, brilliant men, and contentious men as well, they found unanimity through hard-bargained compromises that made the declaration possible. They and their fascinating conflicts in the Continental Congress all are in "1776".

The production is sponsored by the Stoddard County Women's Council for County Improvement arts and humanities committee and the Dexter Bicentennial Committee.

What's the law?

The case of the high spirited guest

By: JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

When Howard's eyesight began to blur at Mr. Dinkle's dinner party, Howard erroneously concluded that he needed stronger glasses instead of weaker drinks. The result? He had several more refills and, by the time he drove home, he was unable to spot Willie crossing an intersection and bounced him high into the air with the front of his car.

Crash landing in a hospital, Willie not only sued Howard for his injuries, he sued Mr. Dinkle as well.

"He can't sue me," protested Mr. Dinkle in court. "I wasn't driving Howard's car. At the time of the accident, I was home in bed."

"Maybe so," responded Willie, "but, he's still the guy to blame. When you consider that he plied Howard with enough alcohol to winterize several cars, the accident was more his fault than Howard's. By boozing up Howard, he made the accident foregone conclusion."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make Mr. Dinkle pay Willie for his injuries?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that a host cannot be held accountable if a guest exceeds his liquor tolerance at a social gathering. The implication of ruling otherwise, noted the judge, would be too far reaching. As just one example, a host would have to be able to determine how much each of his guests can hold at large family celebrations, picnics, etc. and how can he be expected to know that?

(Based upon a 19785 New York Supreme Court Decision)

Spreading bunk about cholesterol

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I wish you would comment on the enclosed column by a man who claims the theory that you should limit your cholesterol intake is all bunk. Note he eats as many as two dozen eggs a week, drinks a quart of milk a day, avoids low cholesterol foods and still has a very low cholesterol level. Is he right and, if so, why can't all of us eat a high cholesterol diet?

DEAR READER — The column you sent me does a disservice to the public. The man evidently is not a scientist nor a physician and has used his own case to try to disprove the work done on literally thousands of people by well trained scientists. One case of anything doesn't prove very much and the poorest example of all is your own case.

He is wrong when he asks why the nation's heart attack rate hasn't decreased with the "nationwide near hysteria over lowering cholesterol." If he were better informed he would know that it has. It would probably decrease even further if more people quit smoking, remained physically active, eliminated or avoided obesity and avoided excess intake of high-fat high-cholesterol foods.

He is right in assuming that hereditary factors are important. We know perfectly well that some people can eat high-fat, high-cholesterol diets and not have high blood cholesterol levels. These individuals inherit a different body chemistry than the rest of the population. Some racial groups such as the Masai are good examples of hereditary protection against high cholesterol and its complications of heart disease. Also most women in their childbearing age span have low blood cholesterol levels despite what they eat. He is certainly not a trailblazer with that news.

Finally he is in his mid 30s and tells us nothing about his level of physical conditioning, how much he exercises or whether he is fat or lean.

The point that high cholesterol levels may be caused by your genes is no argument at all for ignoring its significance any more than one with diabetes should ignore diet because diabetes is hereditary.

The simple facts are that people who do have high cholesterol levels can often lower them through dietary means, which includes limiting calories to correct or eliminate obesity, fat, saturated fat and cholesterol. If the writer had ever treated patients with these problems he would have had a broad enough experience to have made a more balanced presentation to the public. On a case to case basis those of us who have seen what diet does to people with high cholesterol levels know that diet is an important factor in treating such people.

Young women, children and those with normal cholesterol levels need not be so restrictive with their diet.

Thoughts

From The Living Bible

But God showed his great love for us by sending Christ to die for us while we were still sinners. And since by his blood he did all this for us as sinners, how much more will he do for us now that he has declared us not guilty? Now he will save us from all of God's wrath to come. And since, when we were his enemies, we were brought back to God by the death of his Son, what blessings he must have for us now that we are his friends, and he is living within us!

Thoughts

From The Living Bible

But God showed his great love for us by sending Christ to die for us while we were still sinners. And since by his blood he did all this for us as sinners, how much more will he do for us now that he has declared us not guilty? Now he will save us from all of God's wrath to come. And since, when we were his enemies, we were brought back to God by the death of his Son, what blessings he must have for us now that we are his friends, and he is living within us!

What's the law?

The case of the high spirited guest

By: JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

When Howard's eyesight began to blur at Mr. Dinkle's dinner party, Howard erroneously concluded that he needed stronger glasses instead of weaker drinks. The result? He had several more refills and, by the time he drove home, he was unable to spot Willie crossing an intersection and bounced him high into the air with the front of his car.

Crash landing in a hospital, Willie not only sued Howard for his injuries, he sued Mr. Dinkle as well.

"He can't sue me," protested Mr. Dinkle in court. "I wasn't driving Howard's car. At the time of the accident, I was home in bed."

"Maybe so," responded Willie, "but, he's still the guy to blame. When you consider that he plied Howard with enough alcohol to winterize several cars, the accident was more his fault than Howard's. By boozing up Howard, he made the accident foregone conclusion."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make Mr. Dinkle pay Willie for his injuries?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that a host cannot be held accountable if a guest exceeds his liquor tolerance at a social gathering. The implication of ruling otherwise, noted the judge, would be too far reaching. As just one example, a host would have to be able to determine how much each of his guests can hold at large family celebrations, picnics, etc. and how can be be expected to know that?

(Based upon a 19785 New York Supreme Court Decision)

Dr. Lamb

Spreading bunk about cholesterol

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I wish you would comment on the enclosed column by a man who claims the theory that you should limit your cholesterol intake is all bunk. Note he eats as many as two dozen eggs a week, drinks a quart of milk a day, avoids low cholesterol foods and still has a very low cholesterol level. Is he right and, if so, why can't all of us eat a high cholesterol diet?

DEAR READER — The column you sent me does a disservice to the public. The man evidently is not a scientist nor a physician and has used his own case to try to disprove the work done on literally thousands of people by well trained scientists. One case of anything doesn't prove very much and the poorest example of all is your own case.

He is wrong when he asks why the nation's heart attack rate hasn't decreased with the "nationwide near hysteria over lowering cholesterol." If he were better informed he would know that it has. It would probably decrease even further if more people quit smoking, remained physically active, eliminated or avoided obesity and avoided excess intake of high-fat high-cholesterol foods.

He is right in assuming that hereditary factors are important. We know perfectly well that some people can eat high-fat, high-cholesterol diets and not have high blood cholesterol levels. These individuals inherit a different body chemistry than the rest of the population. Some racial groups such as the Masai are good examples of hereditary protection against high cholesterol and its complications of heart disease. Also most women in their childbearing age span have low blood cholesterol levels despite what they eat. He is certainly not a trailblazer with that news.

Finally he is in his mid 30s and tells us nothing about his level of physical conditioning, how much he exercises or whether he is fat or lean.

The point that high cholesterol levels may be caused by your genes is no argument at all for ignoring its significance any more than one with diabetes should ignore diet because diabetes is hereditary.

The simple facts are that people who do have high cholesterol levels can often lower them through dietary means, which includes limiting calories to correct or eliminate obesity, fat, saturated fat and cholesterol. If the writer had ever treated patients with these problems he would have had a broad enough experience to have made a more balanced presentation to the public. On a case to case basis those of us who have seen what diet does to people with high cholesterol levels know that diet is an important factor in treating such people.

Young women, children and those with normal cholesterol levels need not be so restrictive with their diet.

James W. Cagle

FRESNO, Calif. — James Wesley Cagle, 52, a former Sikeston, Mo., resident, died Dec. 31, 1975.

Born Sept. 26, 1923 at Haleyville, Ala., he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cagle and a Navy veteran of World War II.

He moved from Sikeston to Fresno about three years ago.

Surviving are one brother, George Cagle of Kewanee, Mo., and four sisters, Lillie Davis of Sikeston, Cora Fourthman of East Prairie, Mo., Ruby Rogers of Portageville, Mo., and Florine Craft of Haleyville.

Services were conducted Tuesday with full military rites, and burial followed in Fresno.

Claude Abernathy

MALDEN — Claude H. Abernathy, 67, a retired farmer, died at 6:15 p.m. Tuesday at his home.

He was born Dec. 30, 1908 at Tuckerman, Ark. to the late Ada and George Abernathy and had been a resident of Malden since 1951.

On Sept. 6, 1933 he married Naomi Driskell at Cardwell, who survives.

He was a member of First Southern Baptist Church of Malden.

Other survivors include one son, Claude H. Abernathy Jr. of Malden; one daughter, Marilyn Carter of Oklahoma City, Okla.; one sister, Clara Abernathy of Malden; one brother, Burl Abernathy of Flint, Mich.; and three grandchildren and one great-great-granddaughter.

Friends may call after 6 p.m. today at Landess Funeral Home in Malden where services are scheduled at 2 p.m. Thursday with the Rev. Don Cochran officiating.

Burial will follow in Brown Chapel Cemetery at Paragould, Ark.

Helen T. Haines

MALDEN — Mrs. Helene Theresa Haines, 75, died at 3:15 p.m. Tuesday at Baptist Memorial Hospital in Memphis, Tenn.

She was born May 29, 1900 in Bellevue, Ohio to the late Henry and Edith Weutherick Neufer.

On May 16, 1928 she married William C. Haines of Detroit, Mich., who survives.

She was a member of Malden Presbyterian Church where she was treasurer of the women's society, and was a member of Malden Culture Club and Chi Chapter of Sigma Alpha Sorority in Detroit.

Other survivors include one daughter, Carol Demaree of Malden; one daughter-in-law, Mrs. Halbert Anderson of Waco, Tex.; and five grandchildren.

Friends may call after 5 p.m. Thursday at Landess Funeral Home in Malden where services are scheduled at 2 p.m. Friday with the Rev. T. K. Prentice officiating.

Burial will follow in Memorial Park Cemetery.

Consumer package contains 5

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The consumer protection legislative package for the current session of the Missouri General Assembly contains five bills, Harvey M. Tettlebaum, head of the consumer protection division of the attorney general's office, announced Tuesday.

The bills deal with automobile repairs, small claims court, the sale of recreational subdivided land, mobile homes and pre-arranged burial contracts. Portions of these bills were introduced last year in different form and failed to gain passage.

The automobile repairs bill would require written estimates for all auto repairs over $50 with the customer liable for that plus 10 per cent if the repairman exceeds the estimate without prior consent from the customer.

A small claims division of magistrate courts in all counties in Missouri would be established through another bill to handle cases involving disputes under $500 arising from consumer transactions. Persons could represent themselves or be represented by lawyers, according to the bill.

The recreational land sale bill would require all recreational land subdivisions to register with a state agency and show proof of acceptable engineering practices before making any changes in the land. Violations of the act would carry criminal and civil penalties. The bill is intended as a safeguard against poorly planned developments.

The mobile home bill deals with consumer protection on warranties from bankrupt manufacturers or dealers; problems in mobile home parks; and the creation of a uniform method by which mobile homes may be considered as real estate for purposes of taxation and the obtaining of loans.

Convention deliberates resolutions

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Proposed resolutions ranging from reinstatement of capital punishment to opposition of a government-controlled food reserve were to be considered today by delegates to the 57th annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

The convention, in its third day, was to begin deliberations on 48 resolutions contained in a 132-page report submitted by the federation's resolutions committee. Among the resolutions were proposals to deplore a "trend toward centralization of power" in the federal government, to call on Congress to show restraint in enacting laws giving administrative agencies too much power, to reinstate the death penalty as a deterrent to crime and to oppose high government price supports which would re-establish government-held stockpiles of any agricultural product.

A number of the proposals touch on issues discussed by President Ford in a speech before the assembly Monday, including the general economy and deregulation of agricultural markets.

In its Tuesday meeting, federation President William Kuhfuss of Mackinaw, Ill., told the convention that although Ford has used his veto power wisely so far, firm steps are needed to reduce excessive government spending and to reform an inflationary national labor relations policy.

The nation, Kuhfuss said, already has "more government than most of us want and more than we can pay for."

One of the primary targets of Kuhfuss's speech was organized labor, which, he said, had forced the administration to place a moratorium on U. S. grain sales to Russia and Poland last year.

"Never again," the federation leader said, "should any administration permit the takeover of U. S. agricultural policy by a few labor leaders

Stolen trailer, beans found

CHARLESTON — A 1969 International tractor trailer, owned by Jim Henderson of East Prairie and loaded with soybeans, was stolen sometime Tuesday night from Burke Bros. and Giltz elevator on Highway 60 East.

The trailer and soybeans were recovered about 8 a.m. today on Route EE near Wyatt by the Highway patrol.

Deputy Sheriff Norris Grisson said a search is being conducted for the tractor which is blue and white.

Counseling head tells Kiwanians about new center opened

Ron Steinmetz, head of the new Tri-County Counseling Center, reported to Kiwanians Tuesday night at the El Capri Restaurant that a five-room office is open in the old Rustic Rock building to handle the counseling needs of residents in Scott, Stoddard and Mississippi counties.

Steinmetz said that some of the counseling needs in the area include problems with alcohol, drug abuse, parent-child relationship and individual problems. He explained that although some of the people served are mentally ill, many are just emotionally disturbed and need some help.

Before the local center was created, people from this area had to go to St. Louis, Memphis or Farmington to receive such services, he said. The local center has a psychiatric social worker and Farmington Outreach worker, he expalined. The alcoholic counselor currently working in the area sees an average of 90 people a month and the Outreach worker sees 198 people a month.

Salaries are paid by the State Health Department, but donations are needed to help pay rent and costs of secretarial service, Steinmetz said. A federal grant is expected in July, he added.

Two public meetings slated in Advance

ADVANCE — Public meetings to derive input from Advance citizens on ways to use a proposed $400,000 discretionary community development block grant sought from the Department of Housing and Urban Development will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday in the city hall.

Mayor Carl Richman said the two meetings are being held to obtain ideas on how residents would like to see the money spent. He noted that the City Council has discussed various ways of using the money in community projects, but declined to reveal the suggestions.

"We plan to announce ideas on different ways the money could be spent at the meetings, but we want to hear how the people want the money spent first," he said.

Flag raising postponed

SCOTT CITY — Flag-raising ceremonies scheduled at 1 p.m. today at Wetterau Foods Inc. were postponed due to inclement weather.

A spokesman for Wetterau said the ceremonies were rescheduled for 1 p.m. Monday.

Hubcaps reported stolen

Four hubcaps were reported stolen Monday or Tuesday from a car belonging to Melissa Church, Route Two, while the car was parked on the west side of the Kingsway Plaza Mall parking lot, police said.

The four spoked, chrome-wire hubcaps were valued at $172.60.

Ford addresses farmers convention

President Gerald R. Ford speaks to about 8,000 members of the American Farm Bureau Federation in St. Louis Monday. The president promised the farmers less government interference in the farm economy. Rabbit reassigns 'Big Truck bill' to committee

JEFFERSON CITY---- Richard J. Rabbitt, Speaker of the Missouri House of Representatives, has reassigned the "Big Truck Bill" to the House Committee on Consumer Protection.

"There have been several suggestions as to which committee should consider this measure, but after weighing all the facts, I feel that the Consumer Protection Committee is the appropriate committee for this bill," Speaker Rabbitt explained.

A similar measure was passed by the Senate during the last session but failed to receive House committee approval. The bill would provide for an increase in the legal load and length limits for trucks traveling in Missouri.

Rabbitt said, "Since this measure was studied by the Consumer Protection Committee during the last session, the membership of that committee should be well versed on the bill, and I am sure that they will handle it with complete fairness and total objectivity. I want to be sure that the rights of the average highway user are guarded as well as the economic welfare of industry being fully considered.

until Oct. 31. The applications were reviewed and interviews were conducted from Nov. 1 to Dec. 31.

William Becker of Williamsville, chairman of the board of trustees, was chairman of the 10-member searchcommittee.

Others serving on the committee were: Richard Brummitt of Doniphan and Marianna Wolpers of Poplar Bluff, trustees; Dr. Jack Vincent, vice president of the college and dean of arts and sciences; Richard Minetree, chairman of the humanities division; Ronnie McCormick, superintendent of the Clearwater R-1 School District in Piedmont; Joseph Hillis, superintendent of the Twin Rivers R-10 School District in eastern Butler County; Ben Bidewell, former college trustee and Poplar Bluff representative of the stock and brokerage firm, Rowland and Co.; Donald Combs, president of the Bank of Grandin; and Lester Wright, president of Vitronics Corp. of Doniphan.

Westover has been president of the college since it was organized 10 years ago. He suffered a major heart attack in August 1973 and underwent major surgery late in 1974. He underwent open heart surgery in December. His retirement will become effective one year before the expriation of his contract.

Before coming to TRCC, Westover served as president of the Mineral Area College at Flat River after its creation as a separate entity, and prior to that, he served in the dual capacity of superintendent of the public school district and president of the junior college when it operated as part of the public school system.

He has held administrative positions at William and Mary College in Williamsburg, Va., Albright College in Reading, Pa., and Adams State College in Alamosa, Colo. During his term as president, TRCC achieved accreditation by the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools.

Bottenfield said, "I look forward to meeting many of the people in the area served by the college and to becoming involved incommunity activities where I can be of assistance. My wife Barbara and I will enjoy making our home in Poplar Bluff."

Mrs. Bottenfield is a native of Fritchton, Ind.

The suit asks the Scott County Circuit Court to allow the city of Chaffee to proceed under the appropriate statutes providing for an election to determine whether or not a majority of the qualified legal voters in the city favor the extension of city limits to take in the territory described, which lies west of Ramsey Creek and takes in the west side of Highway 77.

100 acres of pasture burn near Sikeston

A fire, believed to have been started by a burning cigarette tossed from a car on Highway 60, burned about 100 acres of pastureland between Highway 60 and Clayton Park southwest of town.

Firemen were called at 1:45 p.m. and fought the fire more than an hour.

The first state to enact a prohibition law was Tennessee in 1838.

Rabbit reassigns 'Big Truck bill' to committee

JEFFERSON CITY---- Richard J. Rabbitt, Speaker of the Missouri House of Representatives, has reassigned the "Big Truck Bill" to the House Committee on Consumer Protection.

"There have been several suggestions as to which committee should consider this measure, but after weighing all the facts, I feel that the Consumer Protection Committee is the appropriate committee for this bill," Speaker Rabbitt explained.

A similar measure was passed by the Senate during the last session but failed to receive House committee approval. The bill would provide for an increase in the legal load and length limits for trucks traveling in Missouri.

Rabbitt said, "Since this measure was studied by the Consumer Protection Committee during the last session, the membership of that committee should be well versed on the bill, and I am sure that they will handle it with complete fairness and total objectivity. I want to be sure that the rights of the average highway user are guarded as well as the economic welfare of industry being fully considered.

until Oct. 31. The applications were reviewed and interviews were conducted from Nov. 1 to Dec. 31.

William Becker of Williamsville, chairman of the board of trustees, was chairman of the 10-member searchcommittee.

Others serving on the committee were: Richard Brummitt of Doniphan and Marianna Wolpers of Poplar Bluff, trustees; Dr. Jack Vincent, vice president of the college and dean of arts and sciences; Richard Minetree, chairman of the humanities division; Ronnie McCormick, superintendent of the Clearwater R-1 School District in Piedmont; Joseph Hillis, superintendent of the Twin Rivers R-10 School District in eastern Butler County; Ben Bidewell, former college trustee and Poplar Bluff representative of the stock and brokerage firm, Rowland and Co.; Donald Combs, president of the Bank of Grandin; and Lester Wright, president of Vitronics Corp. of Doniphan.

Westover has been president of the college since it was organized 10 years ago. He suffered a major heart attack in August 1973 and underwent major surgery late in 1974. He underwent open heart surgery in December. His retirement will become effective one year before the expriation of his contract.

Before coming to TRCC, Westover served as president of the Mineral Area College at Flat River after its creation as a separate entity, and prior to that, he served in the dual capacity of superintendent of the public school district and president of the junior college when it operated as part of the public school system.

He has held administrative positions at William and Mary College in Williamsburg, Va., Albright College in Reading, Pa., and Adams State College in Alamosa, Colo. During his term as president, TRCC achieved accreditation by the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools.

Bottenfield said, "I look forward to meeting many of the people in the area served by the college and to becoming involved incommunity activities where I can be of assistance. My wife Barbara and I will enjoy making our home in Poplar Bluff."

Mrs. Bottenfield is a native of Fritchton, Ind.

Fuel taxes report raises questions on Lehr's 1974 comments on audits

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The status of the Revenue Department's special fuel taxes could not be determined by state Auditor George Lehr because his office was denied access to individual tax records, the Democratic auditor says.

But Lehr's conclusion, contained in an audit report of fuel taxes issued Tuesday, appeared to conflict with comments he made during his 1974 election campaign.

At that time Lehr said he did not feel access to individual tax records was necessary to audit the Revenue Department properly.

"It is not at all necessary to have the individual tax returns by name to perform the function of the auditor's office," Lehr said in a July 1974 interview with The Associated Press.

In the cover letter to the three-year audit covering the period through last June, however, Lehr cited Revenue Director James Spradling's refusal to provide special fuel tax and special fuel use tax records to his office as the reason auditors "were unable to gather sufficient evidence to support an opinion on receipts ..."

While Lehr said he could find "no justification for this refusal," Spradling countered by saying, "There is justification, there's just a disagreement."

The revenue chief based his decision on state law and on a July 1974 Missouri Supreme Court decision denying the state auditor access to individual income, sales and intangible tax records.

"It is not the business of the auditor," the high court held, "to judge the performance of the Department of Revenue or operate the department or determine who does or does not pay taxes ..."

While the case dealt with access to only income, sales and intangible tax records, Spradling claimed it also covered other individual records such as the special fuel tax records.

A spokesman for the auditor said Lehr believes the decision limits access only to the tax records specifically mentioned.

The high court ruling resulted from a suit in which Lehr's predecessor and his 1974 opponent, Republican John Ashcroft, sought access to the records.

Shortly after the ruling, Lehr said the difference between him and Ashcroft on the issue of privacy of individual tax records would be a "major" issue in the campaign.

He said the auditor was responsible only for auditing the overall status of the Revenue Department and "the people responsible for auditing those (individual) returns are in the department."

He admitted he supported any effort to allow the auditor to obtain Supreme Court permission to review such records. But Lehr added, "I can't conceive of that ever happening. It would be like going to court for permission for a wiretap."

Conflicting views on PSC ruling

By the Missouri Press News

JEFFERSON CITY — The Missouri Public Service Co. rate case recently resolved by the state Supreme Court was decided in favor of the utilities, but opnions conflict as to whether the public was a loser.

This case, heralded as possibly having a significant impact on utility regulation, grew out of a Public Service Commission (PSC) decision in June to give the Raytown-based company a $5.6 million rate increase.

The company had followed the traditional method for filing rate increases before the PSC. They filed new rates which were then suspended by the commission pending an investigation.

But a Jackson County Circuit Court judge overturned the rate increase on the basis that the "file and suspend" method was wrong under state law and that a utility must file a complaint to seek rate increases.

Jackson County Deputy Counselor Stanley Christopher had argued that the consumer would benefit if the commission went to a complaint procedure for hearing rate requests.

"We feel that rate-payers and rate-makers should have equal standing before the commission," he said earlier this fall when the case finally reached the high court.

Utility spokesmen were not so kind. Dave Smith, a lawyer for the Kansas City Power and Light Co., said using the complaint procedure would cause "a real and substantial" problem for utilities.

"One of the impacts, as I see it, would be that the commission might sit back and do nothing. They wouldn't have an operational law date (when the commission suspends rates, it does so for a limited amount of time)."

"It contributes even more greatly to the regulatory lag," Smith said.

The court ruled that the commission's "file and suspend" method was proper, however, and that it did not violate either equal protection or due process.

The other main issue in the case was not settled by the court. That was whether the operating costs used to calculate a utility's revenue needs should be projected costs or the most recent actual costs.

Christopher had argued that allowing a utility to use projected costs allow it to "select the period which is most favorable to its rate request."

The court chose to follow the circuit court's decision to avoid the projected versus actual cost problem because "it would be so interwoven with the question of 'reasonableness' of rates" and that is something left to the regulators.

Fuel taxes report raises questions on Lehr's 1974 comments on audits

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The status of the Revenue Department's special fuel taxes could not be determined by state Auditor George Lehr because his office was denied access to individual tax records, the Democratic auditor says.

But Lehr's conclusion, contained in an audit report of fuel taxes issued Tuesday, appeared to conflict with comments he made during his 1974 election campaign.

Waiting in desperation

Shyness being studied

LOS ANGELES (AP) — She is a bright and pretty college freshman who got A's in all her high school classes, but never quite learned how to communicate in a positive way with others.

He is a shy and withdrawn senior who would like to know her better, but when he sees her on campus, he generally stares down at the sidewalk, mumbles "hi" under his breath and quickly walks past.

These are fairly typical examples of nonassertive behavior or shyness. It's a trait that is being examined more now partly because of the women's liberation movement, pyschologists say.

"In the past, women were taught it was appropriate for them to be nonassertive, but now the world is changing, and both men and women realize it's more important to express their feelings and to be honest," says Dr. John Nicks, chairman of the social sciences division at Pepperdine College-Malibu.

Because bashful is no longer beautiful, many colleges are now offering "assertiveness workshops" to help students overcome shyness and to show them how to express directly and comfortably what they want. They are taught they can be assertive, even agressive, without being abrasive.

"Children are told they should be seen and not heard, and as they grow up, it's sometimes hard for them to learn how to interact with others in a positive way," said Dr. William Skilbeck, a clinical psychologist at UCLA, where assertion training began three years ago. "The women's movement has raised a lot of consciousnesses. Both men and women are learning that they don't have only one choice, they don't have to be nonassertive to be liked."

He says about 60 per cent of the students registered in the UCLA workshops are women, but most other schools say they have an equal number of both sexes. In the training, students are taught techniques of conversation, including how to avoid awkward pauses, how to say 'no' instead of being a doormat, how to deal with criticism, how to criticize without offending, how to cope with anger and how to relate to the opposite sex. At some schools, videotapes are used to show shy students that their posture, voice tones, facial expressions and gestures are important in the way they come across to others.

Lovola-Marymount College began an assertion training workshop this year, "although we actually began it last year as par of our women's group," Dr. Lyda Girton, assistant director of the school's counseling center, said. "This is part of a changing trend toward preventive psychological medicine. In the past, many counseling centers were oriented toward a medical model. People would generally come in only when they were really sick or going through a crisis.

"Now, we're going toward a more developmental growth model, trying to teach people skills, like coping skills, socialization skills to prevent a crisis. It's easier to reach students with this approach. It's not as threatening because the problems are not of a crisis nature."

4TH Good Adverse Neutral 1/8

Today in U.S. History

By The Associated Press

Today is Wednesday, Jan. 7, the seventh day of 1976. There are 359 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1953, President Harry Truman announced in his State of the Union Message that the United States had developed a hydrogen bomb.

On this date—

In 1584, the Gregorian calendar was adopted by Roman Catholic states of the Holy Roman Empire.

In 1800, the 13th American President, Millard Fillmore, was born in a log cabin in Cayuga County, N.Y.

In 1927, New York and London were joined by radio telephone service.

In 1938, Joseph Kennedy was appointed U.S. Ambassador to Britain.

In 1967, bloody fighting between Chinese Red Guards and workers was reported in Nanking, China.

In 1968, the government of Lebanon resigned after an Israeli commando raid at the Beirut airport.

Ten years ago: U.S. unemployment was at its lowest level in nearly nine years.

Five years ago: It was announced that some 4,200 Americans had been killed in combat in Vietnam in 1970, the smallest number since 1965.

One year ago: The Chrysler Corp. announced a rebate program to try to stimulate sagging car sales.

Today's birthday: Former Florida governor Claude Kirk is 50 years old.

Thought for today: "People generally quarrel because they cannot argue." Gilbert Chesterton, English writer, 1874-1936.
